HENEY'S RECOVERY IS NOW PROBABLE

FEAR VIOLENCE IF ABE RUEF IS RELEASED

BULLET LOCATED IN JAW

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14.—As a result of the X-ray examination performed this morning, the photographic plates revealed the bullet located just below the jaw. It will probably be extracted at 7 o'clock tonight after the conference of the physicians.

District Attorney Langdon and Detective William J. Burns visited the county jail this morning and talked with Haas. Burns is authority for the statement that the would-be assassin was "naged on" to commit his crime, and promises a startling disclosure this evening. Both he and Langdon called at the Lane Hospital twice during the morning.

MICHIGAN DOWNS BY PENNSYLVANIA

Final score—Pennsylvania 29, Michigan 0.

ANN ARBOR, Nov. 14.—Despite the fact that betting odds were in favor of Pennsylvania, Michigan's hope for victory in this afternoon's football game with the Pennsylvania eleven were high when the gates of Sherry Field were thrown open. Their hopes were placed to a considerable extent upon the ability of halfback Allardice, and the powerful playing of Captain Schultz, the Michigan center. To offset Captain Schultz's strength, a skillful Pennsylvania brought forward all centers, so that there might be a fresh antagonist facing the Michigan captain throughout the game. Score: First half—Pennsylvania 6, Michigan 0.

WEATHER FORECAST.—San Francisco and vicinity—Fair tonight and Sunday; light northwest wind. Santa Clara, Sacramento and San Jose—Fair; light winds. Northern California—Fair tonight and Sunday; light west wind. Southern California—Fair tonight and Sunday; light west wind.

ROOSEVELT WIRES HIS SYMPATHY TO MRS. HENRY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—President Roosevelt, upon learning of the attempt made on the life of Francis J. Heney, telegraphed to Mrs. Heney as follows:

"Am inexpressibly shocked at news of the attempted assassination of Mr. Heney, and am greatly relieved at the news this morning that he is doing well and will probably recover. I hope you will accept my deep sympathy. Like every other good American, I hold your husband in particular regard for the fearless way in which he has attacked and exposed corruption without any regard to the political or the social prominence of the offenders, or to the dangerous character of the work. Your husband has taken his life in his hands in doing this great task for our people and he is entitled to the credit and esteem, and above all to the heartiest support of all good citizens. The infamous character of the man who has assaulted him should add not only to the horror and detestation felt for the deed, but to the determination of all decent citizens to stamp out the power of all men of his kind."

Rockefeller Will Take the Stand

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—John D. Rockefeller is expected to go on the witness stand when the hearing in the government's suit to dissolve the Standard Oil company is resumed next week and tell the story of that gigantic corporation. It is said that Rockefeller will be a willing witness and that for some time he has been desirous of clearing up certain matters concerning the company.

MASS MEETING AT CITY HALL TONIGHT

TO THE CITIZENS OF OAKLAND:

A most infamous crime was committed yesterday afternoon in our neighboring city of San Francisco. While in the discharge of his duty as public prosecutor, within the precincts of a court room, Francis J. Heney was shot down by a cowardly assassin who approached him from the rear, entirely unsuspected by his victim. A mass meeting of Oakland citizens, lovers of justice and upholders of law, will be held in front of the City Hall at 7:30 this Saturday evening, for the expression of sympathy for Mr. Heney and denunciation of methods of which this dastardly crime is the legitimate outcome.

HOW THE TRIBUNE WOKE UP ITS RIVALS

THE TRIBUNE last evening issued three extra editions on the shooting of Prosecutor Francis J. Heney, and it was nearly 12 o'clock before the newsmen stopped crying out "extra" on the street of Oak and San Francisco. Over twenty thousand TRIBUNE extras were sold between 4:30 p. m. and 12 p. m. THE TRIBUNE was the first paper either in Oakland or San Francisco to issue an extra giving an account of the tragedy. It was half an hour ahead of its contemporaries in Oakland and across the bay and was the first extra paper to be seen on the streets of San Francisco.

The entire country on this side of the bay was apprised of the tragedy through THE TRIBUNE extra before one sleepy contemporary woke up. The terrible beat on THE TRIBUNE'S rivals last night only goes to show that WHEN THERE IS A REAL PIECE OF NEWS THE TRIBUNE IS THERE FIRST.

THE TRIBUNE reporter was at the scene of the shooting when it occurred, and immediately bulletinized the main office over THE TRIBUNE'S direct wire from San Francisco. As a result, within fourteen minutes from the time of the shooting the extra TRIBUNE was on the streets. The splendid beat accomplished by this paper last night with its extra was the talk of newspaper circles. It simply goes to show that THE TRIBUNE leads and all others follow.

CALIFORNIA KICKED OFF AT 2:43 P.M.

20,000 WATCH GAME

Between the Blue and the Gold and Stanford's Crack Team.

Society Makes It a Gala Day. Berkeley Never Handled Such a Crowd in Its History.

(By Eddie Smith Over Special Wire From the Football Field)

BERKELEY, Nov. 14.—Twenty thousand people crowded California Field this afternoon when the referee's whistle started play for the third Big Game football game between the University of California and the stalwart band of Stanford's picked athletes.

It was a grand scene. Perfect weather added its quota to the day and society, beaded and begowned, put the favor of approval on the occasion and made a gala day of the gridiron flight.

Thousands of flags, banners and ribbons waved the heroes to their work and the "rooters" vied with each other in sustaining their college honors. The field was crowded from one end to the other. Long before the tickets were exhausted the throng besieged the box office and fought for the "standing room only" pasteboards.

Each team received its welcome as it ran on the field.

Rooters in Force

The California rooters, sitting on the east side of the arena, are dressed in white blouses with blue and gold caps. Stretched across the rear of their stand are several deep blue flags with gold letters, reading "California."

The Stanford rooters are dressed in their customary red jackets and red hats, and will form with white jackets and white caps, a high letter S.

The California rooters have just brought into the grand stand a huge Teddy bear, made of yellow chrysanthemums. It is perhaps five or six feet in height, and three feet in diameter. In the rear of the Stanford rooters stand they have stretched a large banner, bearing the score of the games for the past years, the scores being all in favor of Stanford, at the bottom of which is printed: "Ain't it awful, Berkeley?"

Cheered Heney

The Berkeley rooters opened up by giving three cheers for Francis J. Heney. The football field is exceptionally fast and it is expected that the Stanford team will prove even faster on the doby than they were on the turf field of last year.

The Blue and Gold were the most favored only in point of the numbers of "rooters." The Cardinals had their quota of friends and the merry jibes of the student "rooters" were a feature of the day.

The game was delayed a few minutes in starting. The crowd was not nearly seated, however, when the cheers of California rooters announced the arrival on the field of the U. C. eleven. Only a few seconds more and the Stanford giants made their appearance. Clearing the side lines occupied some time before the referee's whistle announced the game was on.

On the Field

Promptly at 2:35 the Stanford team entered the field, dressed in red jerseys with white running trousers, with red stockings. The Stanford rooters greeted them with a tremendous cheer, and many pounds of red confetti were thrown in the air. The California team followed immediately and were in turn received with great cheers by their rooters. They are robed in the customary blue and gold jerseys with white running trousers and blue and gold stockings.

Professor Johnson is now in the center of the field, conferring with Captains Butler and Crawford.

Stanford Won Toss

Stanford won the toss and chose the north goal. Captain Butler of California kicked off promptly at 3:42. Butler kicked into touch. He only gained ten yards. In the first scrum of the game California had the ball. They were elbowed off and unable to do anything.

After the second scrum of the game Dwiggins kicked down the field and gained twenty-five yards. Dwiggins, after a rally with the ball, again got the ball and kicked down the field for a touch on the side line, gaining twenty-five yards. After a throw-in from the side line, Cadwalader got the ball,

HENRY RESTING EASILY

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14.—At 11 o'clock Dist. Attorney and Bunnell issued the following statement:

"Mr. Heney is resting easily and his condition we regard as satisfactory. His throat is quite dry, his pulse and his respiration are perfectly normal. He slept peacefully for a considerable period after midnight."

The next consultation has been set for 7 o'clock this evening. An X-ray photograph of the wound in Mr. Heney's head has been taken, but the plates are not yet dry.

himself of a privilege conferred by statute in case of emergency, explained that he deemed it wisest to remove the defendant in the pending trial from the sphere of possible violence.

No Violence Reported

Although the period of excitement following the attempt upon Mr. Heney's life lasted far into the night, increasing momentarily as the news spread and the attempt at violence. That Haas should have escaped even minor injury in the courtroom at the hands of the 200 persons, influenced by every slant of prejudiced belief and opinion, is considered a remarkable testimonial to the efficiency of the police department and the admirable self-control exercised by the citizens present.

Bullet Still in Neck

The day is likely to bring forth crowds gathered, and although intemperate speeches were made and rash counsel was given in some instances while tempers were at white heat, there was reported to the police not a single many developments of interest. An X-ray examination, held as soon as the physicians are assembled in conference, will probably disclose the exact location of the bullet, which, after entering the prosecutor's right temple an inch forward of the ear, ranged downward and lodged in the muscles on the left side of the neck.

During the lay detective's endeavor to obtain a more comprehensive statement from the would-be assassin and the city will be scourled by officers intent upon establishing his every movement for weeks past. Preparations will be perfected for the mass meeting tonight called by the Citizens' League of Justice, where it is expected that addresses will be made by prominent citizens and resolutions passed calling for a quickened prosecution of the men indicted on various charges connected with municipal corruption.

ROOSEVELT WIRES

'There must be no faltering in work in which Heney was efficient leader.'

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14.—The following telegram, supplementing one to Mr. Heney, which has not yet been made public, has been received from President Roosevelt by Rudolph Spreckels:

"WHITE HOUSE, NO. 14.

"Rudolph Spreckels, San Francisco: I am incomparably shocked at the attempted assassination of Heney, and most earnestly hope that he will recover. The infamous character of the would-be assassin no less than the infamously famous character of the deed, call attention in a striking way to the true character of the forces against which Heney and you and your associates have been struggling. Every decent American who has the honor and interest of the country at heart should join, not only in putting a stop to the wave of violent crime of which this man's act is but one of the symptoms, but also in stamping out the heinous corruption in which men like this would be as assassin are bred and flourish; and that can only be done by warring, as Heney has warred, relentlessly against every man who is guilty of corrupt practices, without any regard to his social standing, to his prominence in the world of politics or in the world of business.

"I earnestly hope that Heney will recover, and I give utterance to what I know would be Heney's wish when I say that I earnestly hope that, whether he recover or not, there be no faltering in the work in which Heney has been so gallant and efficient a leader."

"THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

STATEMENT ISSUED BY SPRECKELS

(Special to The Tribune)

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11.—Just as he was leaving the hospital in one of several trips this morning, Rudolph Spreckels, financial backer of the graft prosecution and warm personal friend of the stricken attorney, made a statement speaking in part as follows:

I wish to state that the so-called politicians are enough alike in every way that the men who stand publicly charged with the responsibility for the attempt

Shot as He Sat at His Table in Court

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14.—The scene in the court room recovered from the momentary stunned effect in which the shot left them that were cited of having him "knocked down" by a thunderbolt from a clear sky.

Morris Haas the would-be assassin was as immovable as the furniture in the court room. The tragedy came during a recess of the court. Mr. Heney and Mr. O'Gara representing the prosecution together with Thos. J. Dozier representing the defense had been in consultation with Judge Lawlor in his chambers. Mr. Heney left the party, and entering the court room sat down at the attorneys' table and was busily discussing points with some of his friends.

Revolver at Temple.

Suddenly Haas left the rear of the court room, walked six feet up to Mr. Heney and placing the revolver level to his temple fired. Heney's head sank forward the blood trickled through his fingers and he sank to the floor.

In the brief flush of consternation he was heard to gasp "Stand for my wife."

Before Haas could fire another shot he was overpowered by John L. O'Gara, Mr. Heney's bodyguard, and others, thrown to the floor and handcuffed.

To John O'Gara the assistant district attorney who had been responsible for his life in his case. Mr. O'Gara made the following upper only told statement before his removal to the hospital from the court room:

"Stand for my wife," he whispered and then, believing I am about to die, I make this statement. I was just sitting down when I felt something strike me from behind. I did not know what it was—whether I was shot. I do not know who hit me.

I'll live to convict him yet," said Mr. Heney as he lay on the table.

Detectives Guard Ruef's Lawyers

(Special to The Tribune)

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14.—A guard of thirty men were scattered throughout the Ingleside jail, three of them in close proximity to his cell. Morris Haas spent a bad night last night and if anything worse than questioning of the police was to be had, he was subjected to it this morning. The real reason for transferring him to the county jail in a remote part of a city rather than locking him up in a city prison, a idea from a matter of safety, is said to have been the desire to put him through a more rigid investigation process than would be possible in the crowded confines of the prison.

No Conspiracy Police Say

Chief Duke said this morning when he first met with his colleagues in the office of Judge Lawlor that his chief purpose in doing further investigation in his statement to Captain of Police Gleason was to determine if a conspiracy had been formed to assassinate the president that afternoon. He said he was not able to estimate the probability that after the shooting the chief of police was of the opinion that such a scheme existed. Although Ruef was not brought into the Lawlor's court this morning, although several of his cases were on the calendar, as it was deemed unsafe to bring him through the public streets. Attorneys Ach and Dozier are still guarded by Detectives Bunner and O'Connell, who have been detailed especially by Chief Bunnell at the request of the lawyers, who fear that some revenging might be taken out on them.

Ruef Case Goes On Monday

At a meeting this morning between District Attorney Langdon and his two assistants and Attorneys Joseph Dwyer, Matt J. Sullivan and Hiram Johnson, it was decided that the Ruef trial would go on as usual on Monday and that the three listed named attorneys would take up the work of Mr. Heney where he was left off to leave it because of the foul attempt on his life. To that end the gentlemen named will consult with Assistant District Attorney O'Gara who knows a great deal about the case and will study the record of the proceedings so far in order to be perfectly familiar with the case.

Lawlor Intended to Order Ruef Locked Up Before Heney Was Shot

(Special to The Tribune)

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14.—The facts of the case were laid before the court by the district attorney, who said that he intended to demand that Ruef be held in custody until the trial was over.

The purpose of the summonses issued to the summonses issued to his chambers was for Judge Lawlor to place him in custody before the trial began.

EX-CONVICT, QUESTIONED BY DETECTIVES, SAYS HE "SHOT FOR HUMANITY'S SAKE"

TELLS OF ACTS PRIOR TO THE SHOOTING

Haas Declares Business Was Ruined by Exposure of His Past.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14.—Immediately after shooting Francis J. Heney, Morris Haas was manacled by detectives and thrown in a corner of the courtroom. Within a few minutes he made the following statement:

"I was employed in 1888 as a drummer for the firm of Schlesinger & Green. While in Philadelphia I was arrested by Detective Dan Coffey of San Francisco on charge of embezzlement. I was brought back to San Francisco tried and convicted. My trial was subsequently pardoned by Governor Waterman. When Abe Ruef was on trial some time ago I was summoned as a juryman in the 1st district. Heney brought up my previous record and when it was exposed it ruined my business, which was then 18 years old. I left the street, and the thing has worried me ever since."

"I shot Heney today for humanity's sake," he continued. "When I was not I came to the courtroom for that express purpose. I visited Sam Levy at room 115, International hotel, and borrowed $20 from him. I then carried a pistol at intervals and carried this pistol, which I have owned for several years, two days ago when I visited Chinatown. This statement is true and voluntary."

Questioned by Burns

After he had made this statement Haas was led into an inner room where he was questioned by Special Agent William J. Burns. Haas told Burns that he arose yesterday at 10 o'clock and implored the coroner to let him carry a pistol at intervals and carried this pistol, which I have owned for several years, two days ago when I visited Chinatown. This statement is true and voluntary."

Mr. Burns, Q.—Who did you see at the autopsy? A.—None worth collecting.

Q.—Did you see there? A.—I received a postal card yesterday.

Q.—From the Auditor's office? A.—Signed by John Koster, I think.

Q.—Yes? A.—Telling me there is a warrant there.

The postal was to call, that there was a warrant drawn in my favor, unless I would call it could be canceled.

Q.—What do you mean? A.—I presented the postal card and he asked me to sign my name in the book. I signed it and the number was 65,741.

Q.—Where did you get the warrant and so on to go to the Treasurer?

A.—First he asked me, "What have you got got here?" I said, "None."

Q.—None? A.—None, because I never sold anything to the city and I knew I was on the jury duty.

Q.—How much was it? A.—Ten dollars.

Q.—Then you got the money, where did you go? A.—Where did I go then?

Q.—Yes? A.—Then I went to see a friend in Chinatown.

Q.—Who was it? A.—Well, Mr. Burns.

Q.—Yes, explain it to me. A.—You want a fair statement; you are a fair man?

Q.—Yes, certainly, that's right. A.—I went to San Quentin because there was a graft.

Q.—What do you go to see Sam Levy? A.—He is sick in bed.

Q.—Where does he live? A.—In the International Hotel, room 113.

Q.—Where is the National Hotel—the International? A.—In the International.

Q.—Is that Kearny street?

A.—In Kearny, I went to see him and I say: "Sam, can you spare me a dollar? I wanted to leave some money home for the trial."

Mr. Burns, Q.—What did he say?

A.—He says yes, he would give it to me.

Got His Money

Q.—He gave you the twenty? A.—Yes.

Q.—Ten I gave to my wife, to you.

Q.—What time did you go home to give it to her? A.—Then I left them and came up on the Sutter-street car, intending to take the transfer which would take me home, but the conductor didn't collect my fare.

Q.—You went home, didn't you? A.—No.

Q.—Where did you go? A.—I went as far as Filmore street.

Q.—Who did you meet there? A.—I went to Herbert's saloon.

Q.—Where's that? A.—Al Herbert.

Q.—Where's that? A.—On Filmore, between Post and Sutter. I got off at Sutter.

Stopped at Saloon

Q.—Who did you see there? A.—Mr. Burns, do me a favor. Please take a cigar out of my pocket for me. She isn't home. Right now in this side pocket. I can speak better. I am not exactly nervous.

Q.—Who was there? A.—On Filmore street.

Q.—Yes, I went to Al Herbert's and had a big glass of beer, you know, what we call a double. I paid for it.

Q.—Was anyone with you? A.—No.

I took that beer from the bar and sat by the table there.

Q.—By yourself? A.—By myself, at the second table.

Q.—What time was that you were there about? A.—About half past one.

I didn't get in until 10 o'clock.

Q.—And the first time did you go from Herbert's saloon? A.—Then I took what you call a half glass of beer, you know they charge 10 cents.

Q.—Yes? A.—I took a half a glass of beer and another, and you know ever since this happened?

Q.—Just tell me where did you go from there? A.—You were right there.

Captain Duke: We have got all of that.

From there I went to the nickelodeon.

Q.—Which nickelodeon? A.—On Filmore street, near Post.

Q.—On the east or west side of the street? A.—On the east side.

Save Show

Q.—You saw there what? A.—I saw there Friday, the Thirteenth. You know a funny piece, and I say "The Old Maid."

Q.—About how long did you stay at the nickelodeon? Can't you have these things (referring to his pocket)?

Q.—Yes, after a little. A.—Just while I am speaking to you? There is enough people around here won't hurt you.

Q.—People didn't know that? A.—I stayed there until the show was over.

Captain Duke: Yes, take them off. Certainly, take them off.

Q.—Who was with you? Who was with you?

Where did you go after you left the nickelodeon? A.—From the nickelodeon, then I took the O'Farrell street car and rode as far as Kearny street McAllister and there was no car coming along so walked up and went home.

Q.—Went home? A.—Went home.

Home at 2:30

Q.—You got home then about what time? A.—Oh I guess I got home about half past two o'clock.

Q.—You got home about half past two o'clock? A.—Yes, and I felt miserable.

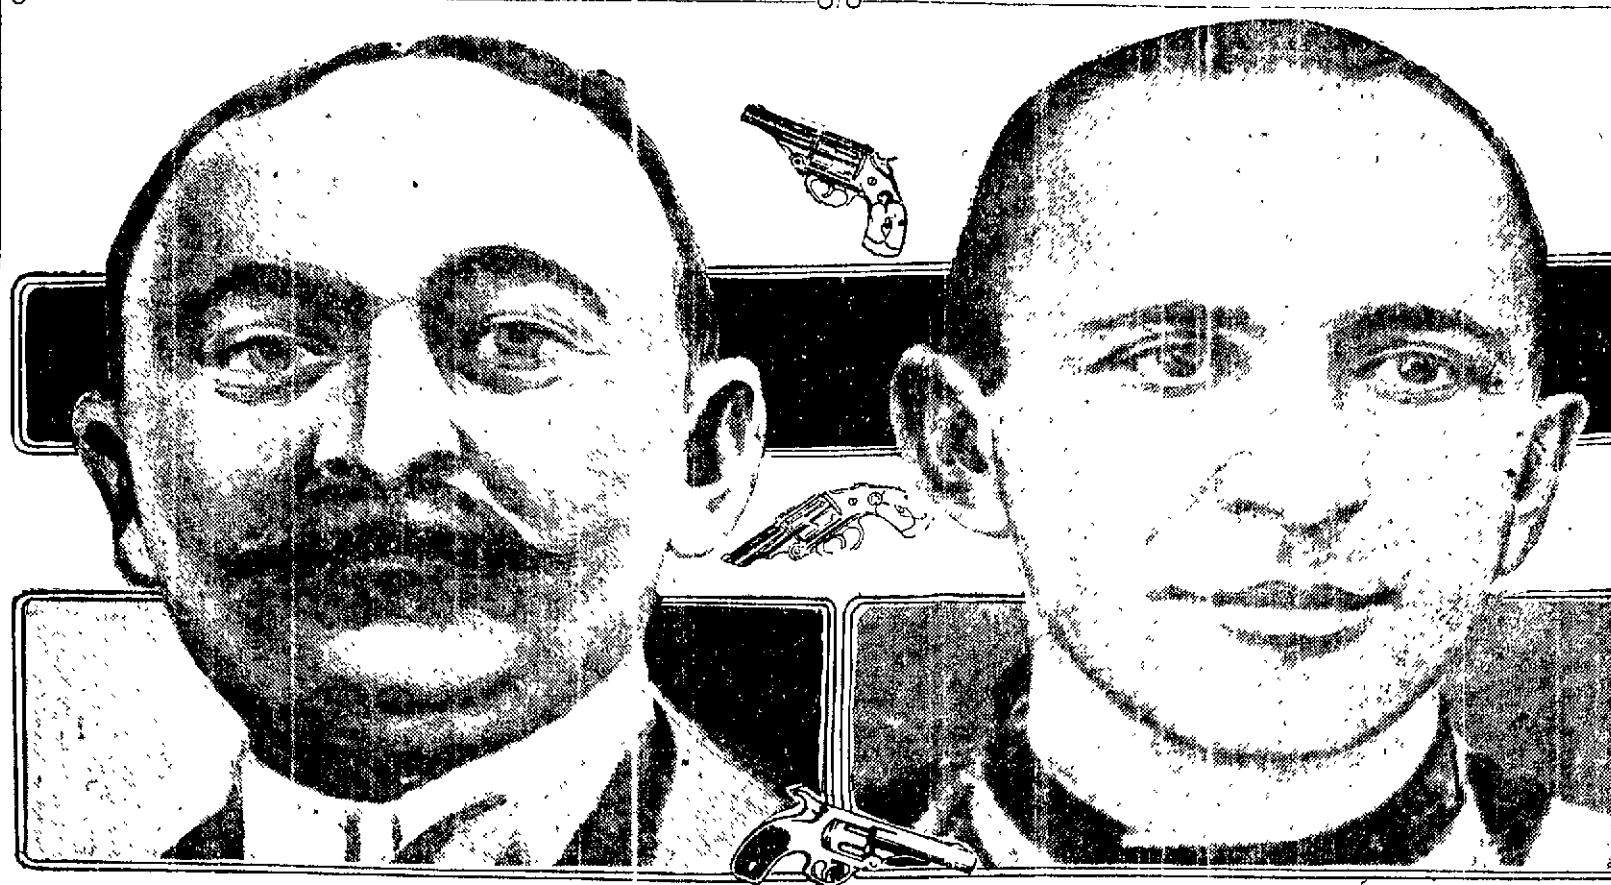

Q.—Then where did you go? A.—I walked down here.

Q.—Have not been at the courtroom.

MORRIS HAAS,
The Man Who Shot Heney.

MORRIS HAAS,
As an Inmate of State's Prison.

Haas, Q.—I never have been here before. A.—I voted yesterday, I voted Tuesday a week ago. I voted in a primary election for Governor Watson. It is a public record that I was in San Quentin. It is a public record of the Superior Court that I was in the State's Prison. I was frequently paroled by Governor Waterman. When Abe Ruef was on trial some time ago I was summoned as a juror man in the 1st district. Heney brought up my previous record and when it was exposed it ruined my business, which was then 18 years old. I left the street, and the thing has worried me ever since.

"I shot Heney today for humanity's sake," he continued. "When I was not I came to the courtroom for that express purpose. I visited Sam Levy at room 115, International hotel, and borrowed $20 from him. I then carried a pistol at intervals and carried this pistol, which I have owned for several years, two days ago when I visited Chinatown. This statement is true and voluntary."

Q.—Did you always carry it? A.—I had the pistol in my pocket all the time.

Q.—Did you always carry it with you? A.—No, I would carry it with me.

'I DID KISS EDNA CLARK'

--Rev. Payson Young

NOT LOVER'S CARESS, IS RECTOR'S EXCUSE

Rev. Young Declares He Never Denied Having Kissed Missing Girl.

Tells Captain Petersen He Only Tried to Console Art Student.

"I have never denied kissing Edna Clark."

Statement voluntarily made by the Rev. Payson Young to Captain of Detectives Petersen yesterday.

"I have never denied kissing Edna Clark," said the Rev. Payson Young. "She came into my study much exercised over religious matters. She was in tears. In my religious capacity I placed my arm about her waist and kissed her either on the cheek or on the forehead. I do not remember which. It was a salutation of comfort, not of love. I have no affection for the girl other than as a minister for one who sought relief from troubles. I admitted to the girl's relatives that I had kissed the girl. But it was only upon that one occasion. It was not a loving caress. I do not believe the girl is infatuated with me. She was in distress and I soothed her, and this I have never denied. LEHNHARDT'S SPECIAL TOMORROW CONTAINS COLLEGE ICE CREAM

BRICK APPROPRIATE TO TOMORROW'S COLLEGE FESTIVITIES ARRANGED BY CANDY MAN--ALWAYS TAKES ADVANTAGE OF CURRENT EVENTS --EXPECTS BIG SALE.

Lehnhardt, the early man, certainly keeps watch of events, if the nature of his Sunday desserts are any criterion. For instance, tomorrow he offers a special college brick of ice cream at 80¢ which is particularly appropriate to the festivities college people are now enjoying.

This brick contains a layer of a new water ice called College water ice and which make a great impression last year at the time of the big game. This College water ice is exceedingly delicious and absolutely different from any similar dessert ever made. College people have a sort of a patent on it and it is never served except at such times when celebrations of a college nature are in vogue.

On one side of the layer of this college ice will be a layer of vanilla ice cream and on the other side a layer of Lehnhardt's celebrated heavy cream frozen around the finest of imported fruits.

This brick will be one of the finest Lehnhardt ever put out and on account of the appropriate feature of College water ice should prove doubly popular tomorrow at the dinner given to entertain those who attended the great game today.

These bricks will be sold for 80¢ each and no charge will be made for delivery. They all contain enough for at least eight people and come packed in a freezer and will keep for hours. No dinner tomorrow, with any pretensions at a college celebration will be complete without the happy climax of this dessert. Orders

Haas' Wife Faints When Told of Shooting

Bar Association Deplores Attempt to Murder Him

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14.—The San Francisco Bar Association last night adopted the following resolution in the matter of the attempted assassination of Assistant District Attorney Francis J. Heney, Esq., while in the performance of his high public duty:

Resolved, That this association deeply regrets the unfortunate and most despicable a task upon, and attempted assassination of San Francisco's able and fearless assistant district attorney, Francis J. Heney, Esq., while in the performance of his duty.

And be it further resolved, that this association hereby tender to said Francis J. Heney, Esq., and to his family, its sympathy in this hour of trial and sorrow, and its hope that their may be no fatal results.

Attest—GEORGE J. MARTIN, Secretary.

face of a defense set up for him by a detective through a misunderstanding, is a point in his favor in the eyes of the detective captain His frankness and apparent anxiety to throw whatever light he can on the case has led Captain Petersen to make this statement today for publication:

Detective's Opinion

"From what I have been able to learn from my interview with the Rev. Payson Young, there is no reason to suspect at this time that he is the sole source of information concerning the mysterious disappearance of the girl. At this time there is absolutely no ground on which anyone would have a right to be granted a search warrant for looking through the effects of Mr. Young in the hopes of discovering something which might further connect him with the case.

"He was entirely frank with me, answered every question unhesitatingly and I have formed the opinion that he is telling the truth. So far as he can determine, he has committed but one act which might be construed as an indecency. That was in kissing the girl. This he freely admits and that speaks in his favor for it shows that he is not attempting to hide a single thing.

Not Lover's Caress.

"The Rev. Payson Young declares that when he kissed Edna Clark, that it was not the caress of a lover, but a salutation of comfort. He declares that the girl was much worried over religious matters. She sought him out for comfort, he says, not from a lover's standpoint. There is much work ahead of me, but I have hopes of clearing up the mystery eventually."

Dr. E. M. Keys of Alameda is in attendance on Mrs. Mack, the mother of the missing girl, and declares that he will not disclose where the lady is at the present time. He admitted that she is sick and worn out from the excitement and the nervous strain to which she has been subjected for the past three weeks. The doctor informed the reporter of THE TRIBUNE that the lady had solemnly assured him that she had no idea as to where her daughter was or where she had gone after she left home on the 27th of last month.

Should Have Searched

Dr. Keys has little appreciation for the part which the Rev. Payson Young has played in the premises both before and after the disappearance of Miss Edna Clark. He asserts that the quarters of the clergyman had been searched immediately after the disappearance of the girl, facts which have been discovered which would have long since brought the girl back to her home.

Mother's Condition

When asked this morning as to where Mrs. Mack was standing at this time, Dr. Keys said: "See her where no one will be permitted to see her; she is alone in bed at the house of a friend and in the attendance of a nurse. She is prostrated from the anxiety, the excitement and the nervous shock which sustained us a consequence of the disappearance of her daughter. As I arose to leave I saw several men grab and threw a man and the word quickly passed that it was Mr. Heney who had been shot. I could not see Mr. Heney at the time that the pistol was fired as there were several other persons standing grouped about him."

SENT TO PRISON FOR TWO YEARS FOR $275 THEFT

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., Nov. 14.—Morris Haas, who shot Francis J. Heney in San Francisco, was sentenced to the State Prison for two years by the Superior Court of this county on May 23, 1888, he having pleaded guilty to the charge of embezzlement.

Haas was a traveling salesman, representing Hesler Brothers & Co., and Schlesinger & Green, the latter being cigar merchants of San Francisco.

Appropriated $275

On July 27, 1887, Haas collected from H. J. Wild, a San Francisco cigar dealer, $275 due Schlesinger & Green, appropriating this sum to his own use.

"But I cannot for the life of me feel otherwise than that if Rev. Payson Young told all he knew of the disappearance of the girl she would now be with her mother."

"From newspapers and from the reports of the detectives, I feel that a grave mistake was made in not going at once through the residence and the rectory of Rev. Payson Young and giving both of them a thorough searching.

What they have done, something would have been found which would have tended to show the present whereabouts of the girl."

Scouts Idea of Nurse

"The idea of not going east for the purpose of becoming a training nurse, which has been expressed by Rev. Payson Young, is out of the question for the reason that training schools in the east are more strict than they are in the west, and all of them require recommendations and references before admitting applicants."

"Mr. Clark, the father of the girl, and myself, shared offices here some years ago. He occupied the place one hour and I occupied the other. I knew him intimately. I got acquainted with his divorced wife, the mother of the missing girl."

Two Were Chums

"I shall have to refute the story of the priest that Edna and her mother were disaffected. She and her mother I know to have been chums."

"However, on account of the occasion the 80¢ college brick is recommended for tomorrow."

"Don't forget the candy when you order the brick. Phone all orders to Oakland 437 or Home Phone A 3497.

Lehnhardt also has made some U. C. and Stanford Candy Waffles. Those waffles are just like breakfast waffles except that they are made of candy and are only about an inch long. Those for U. These candies will be on sale this afternoon and all day tomorrow, and a pound or two should be ordered by everyone who orders the college brick. The desire will be 50¢ a pound. Anyone desiring to present a box of candy to any of their college friends would do well to include some of this new candy.

Mr. Lehnhardt also announces that he will make a fine 50¢ brick of ice cream tomorrow which will be sold in boxes over the counter. These bricks will consist of a layer each of strawberries, vanilla and chocolate ice cream and will be made of the same heavy cream as the 80¢ Special, the only difference being in the flavors. Of course, the 60¢ bricks will not be delivered, but if you can eat out an hour before your dinner you'll find them easy to carry and that they'll keep for an hour or so.

EMPEROR OF CHINA DEAD

SUCCUMBED AT FIVE O'CLOCK, IN PALACE

AMERICAN FEDERATION TO OUTLINE POLICY

PROSPECT IS THAT THE HEAD OF THE BODY WILL BE COMMENDED FOR HIS COURSE DURING RECENT NATIONAL CAMPAIGN.

EMPRESS IS NEAR DEATH ALSO—JAPAN MAY NOT ACT IN WAR-LIKE MANNER AT PRESENT TIME.

PEKIN, Nov. 14.—8 p. m.—The emperor of China died shortly after 5 o'clock this afternoon.

The report of yesterday that the dower empress was mortally ill was confirmed by the foreign board of the government.

TOKIO, Nov. 14.—8 p. m.—The news of the emperor's passing is accompanied by a rumor that the empress dower is also dead, and while this is not given general credence, it is understood she has been seriously ill for several weeks. The Associated Press has excellent grounds for believing that the situation in China, in the event of the dower's death, will not be made the occasion of any summary move on the part of Japan, but the Japanese government will await an agreement of all the powers.

JAPAN NOT TO ACT

It may be said it is not Japan's intention in the event of disorder or aggression in Chinese territory to take any step whatever until there has been a consultation of all the interested nations and until a course satisfactory to all has been determined upon.

Whatever may develop Japan has determined that the first to be held at their door of violence or aggressive action. This may be regarded as absolute and authoritative.

In all circles the situation is eagerly discussed. The Associated Press has been given to understand that there is a fair possibility of avoiding any trouble with China if the new emperor is accepted and approved by the nation prior to the death of the dower.

All the newspapers here are publishing extras dealing with the possibilities of the Chinese situation.

FAMOUS S. F. TRIALS CONTINUED AGAIN

(Special to The Tribune.) SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14.—The cases against Patrick Calvoun, Thornewell Mullally, T. L. Ford and William M. Abbott were continued in Judge Lawlor's court this morning for two weeks. The defendants were represented by Attorney Stanley Moore.

WOULD HAVE HUSBAND JAILED FOR CONTEMPT

Mrs. Josephine Copes, who is suing J. A. Copes for divorce, filed an affidavit with the county clerk today in which she says that Cope is not paying her the alimony awarded her by court. She requested that he be made to comply with the law wherein it states that unless the monthly allowance he paid Copes be sent to jail for contempt of court.

Rivard, Who Reeled Into Hospital, Terribly Gashed, Taken to Infirmary.

Charles Rivard of 112 Fitch street, who told a strange story of being the victim of a murderous attack by thugs Thursday night, was removed from the Receiving Hospital to County Infirmary this morning. He is 57 years old, and it is said by medical authorities that man of his age will have difficulty in recovering.

Rivard maintains that he was attacked by thugs and robbed of $7.50. From the character of the wound, Dr. Hamlin and Stewart Harry Bert Bert, who attended him, say it is a puncture that the man was attacked in such a dastardly manner. They declare that some trouble Rivard had, possibly with a woman, caused him to slash himself with his pocket knife in a fit of angry passion.

Beauty and Bad Breath

CANNOT GO TOGETHER NO MATTER HOW A WOMAN MAY TRY TO MAKE THEM.

It does not matter how beautiful a woman may be, if she is afflicted with bad breath she will be shunned and hated by men and even women will studiously avoid her.

If any woman doubts this statement let her make a point of asking a friend or relative to be home as soon as possible. Let her make him sit close to her so that foul breath from the mouth of a woman will drive men from her more rapidly than any other personal affliction.

Foul breath arouses in man disgust and where this quality is brought into no account of self-delusion or ignorance, the natural repulsion which comes to man against such an odor.

What is true of bad breath in man is not true in man's degree. In man, however, it is a disease, as in woman, of sweetness, breeding virtue and refinement. Foul breath will skewer a man's soul.

There is absolutely no occasion for such a woman to be in society, especially if she is a woman of means.

Mr. Celeste Colegrave filed suit for divorce today against Clare Colegrave, alleging cruelty. She declares that her husband struck her and applied names which she says humiliated her. The couple were wedded on October 23, 1902.

Grace L. Hardin asks for a divorce from Henry M. Hardin on the ground of desertion. They were married July 15, 1902.

Miss Irvin Allen filed suit for divorce against Frank J. Madison on the ground of cruelty. She accuses her spouse of staying away from home at meal times, causing her much anguish by permitting the nurse to get cold on the table. The Madisons were married in Los Angeles September 15, 1897.

WALKS INTO BAY AND DROWNS

UNIDENTIFIED MAN DELIBERATELY DIES

Calmly Goes Into Tidal Canal Waters and Succumbs Before Help Arrives--Believed to Have Been Demented.

At about 11 o'clock this morning, a man who is identified has not as yet been determined, deliberately walked into the tidal canal at Fruitvale, between San Leandro bay and the High street bridge and was drowned.

Wallace Anderson of 1032 Bassett street and S. E. Woods of 3514 Putnam street, Fruitvale, two boys who were fishing at the time, saw him walk into the water, but paid no attention to him until they saw him floundering in the water over his head. They hastened to pull him out, but were too late, however, to do any assistance. His pockets contained nothing by which he could be identified.

He was a man of about thirty years of age, about five feet six inches in height, had black hair and was of a Portuguese cast of countenance. The body has been taken to the morgue and an effort will be made to identify it.

MUST BARE BUSINESS OF BANK

PAPERS SERVED IN MILLION-DOLLAR SUIT

President Rickey of Defunct State Bank of Reno Found on San Francisco Train—Must Face Investigation.

RENO, Nov. 14.—Passing through Reno on his return from Independence, where he was defendant in a suit to recover mining stock, to San Francisco, T. B. Ulley, indicted president of the State Bank and Trust Company, was served on the train with papers in a suit for an accounting of Bank funds, amounting to $1,062,000 last night by a deputy sheriff and a number of witnesses in the suit, an equally prominent banker, G. W. Mapes, president, and C. T. Bender, cashier of the Washoe County Bank of Reno, and Dr. S. L. Lee J. Woodbury, Willson Brugher, George Myers and Al Dylins, bankers of Carson, all eight being named as defendants in the defunct bank's action, it is brought by Receiver Wildes of the bank, who filed the complaint in Carson City last Monday and who asked for an accounting of the bank funds alleged by him to have been lost by the State Bank and Trust Company through misappropriation on the part of the directors of the bank. The complaint was sealed and not made public until after the papers had been served on Rickey last night.

Papers have been served on each of the defendants except Mapes, who is now in the East and cannot have appeared in the district court on the 14th instant. The trial will be named and given an accounting of the bank's business. Its final judgment is secured by Wildes against Rickey and his associates. Wildes immediately proceed to collect this amount from the directors individually to reimburse the depositors, who suffered when the bank closed its doors in May, 1907.

An investigation of the shooting last night at Clenfuegos of Edward Prieto, Laborer by Gonzalez Vieta, a Conservative, and at one time mayor of Clenfuegos, indicates that this affair is without political significance. There is evidence that Prieto followed Vieta and attacked him with a knife, whereupon Vieta fired a self-defense. One policeman was severely injured while attempting to separate the two men.

It is probable that the bulk of the vote will be cast early. Cabs and automobiles are being freely used by both parties to carry voters to the polls.

The Conservatives this morning are somewhat encouraged by the report that General Aloman and General Guzman, Liberals of Santa Clara province, have announced their intention of supporting Menocal.

THE MEDDLER

MRS. KENNETH MILLICAN.

IT has rarely happened that we have had so many important wedding dates in November, for wedding bells are ringing this month for William Thornton White and Katherine Brown, for Blanche Laymance and Leslie Rice, and for Fanny Perkins and Cleveland Baker.

Nearly two hundred guests were present on Wednesday evening at the wedding of Miss Laymance and Mr. Leslie Rice, and the occasion represented the largest home wedding we have had in many months. It was a white and gold wedding, the kind of wedding one can most appropriately carry out in November, and the large home of the Laymances represented a series of superb studies in white and yellow chrysanthemums.

Especially worthy of praise was the drawing-room, which carried most artistic decorations, and many that were new and original. There were many accomplishments in a special manner for the altar of white satin, made of gold posts with cloth of gold, with an over-hanging shower of yellow chrysanthemums.

The large attic, in which the wedding supper was served, represented a "sylvan scene," with great boughs of eucalyptus and bamboo, outlining the sides, while branches of green hid the rafters.

A wedding is always most interesting, for all the world loves a romance, and of a large wedding the last word seems never to be said, so many are the details concerning which one might write. Miss Laymance made a very handsome bride, in wedding costume, which was most elaborate and very beautiful. The gown was of Irish and torchon lace over white muslin, made with directoire effect, and set off by a large white satin muff elaborately trimmed in orange blossom and lilies of the valley.

Rarely has there been a wedding at which so many imported gowns were worn, and the gowns of the relatives at the wedding have called out much favorable comment.

Miss Laymance's costume was elaborate in the extreme, of blue messaline, with finely arranged trimmings of rare old lace.

Mrs. A. D. Laymance wore a hand-made gown of fine black lace over black silk, with diamond ornaments.

Mrs. E. E. Laymance wore a gown planned along original lines. It was of broadcloth in pastel blue effects, following the directoire style.

Mrs. Robinson, the bride's aunt, rare lace.

wore a very handsome gown of liberty satin, with an overdress of rare lace. Diamond ornaments completed a very stunning costume.

Mrs. Gilbert Curtiss and Mrs. Lawson Adams have recently returned from abroad, bringing with them wonderful creations from the French modistes, creations of absorbing interest to their friends. Doucet makes the most beautiful of gowns, and Mrs. Curtiss' costume at the wedding attracted general attention, coming, as it did, from Doucet's famous establishment.

The gown was of beautiful white tissue, heavily embroidered in silver, which shone and shimmered under the electric lights, and the gown was set off by the silver ornaments in the hair, which the Parisians are now wearing. In fact, in Paris, in evening gowns, one finds a notable arrangement in silver effects.

The Percy Walkers have recently returned from abroad, and Mrs. Walker brought with her some lovely gowns, among them the charming little gown she wore at the wedding, a Parisian creation of heavily embroidered gauze over white silk.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawson Adams, formerly Hazel Curtiss, came over from Belvedere and were guests at the wedding. Mrs. Adams representing the latest cry from Paris, as she has recently returned from a long trip abroad.

The Parisians have been adopting many unique and original fashions this season, among which are directoire gowns, picture hats and long ear-rings, the latter sometimes very striking, and sometimes very bizarre.

Mrs. Adams' gown showed a crepe effect, and set off by a large white satin muff elaborately trimmed in orange blossom and lilies of the valley.

Among the guests from across the bay were Dr. and Mrs. Edmund Keefe, formerly Alice Britton. Mrs. Keefe was one of the brides of last year, and she wore her beautiful wedding gown of heavy white satin.

Her sister, Mrs. Walter Kelogg, was gowned in dainty pink messaline, beautifully trimmed in lace.

Another guest, who wore her wedding gown, was Mrs. Earl Henley, formerly Pauline Mathews, whose gown was of lace, with a berthe of Mrs. J. Walter Scott's gown was specially effective, an all-over gown of valenciennes lace, the corsage beautifully trimmed in hand-made baby Irish lace. And with the elaborate gown superb diamond ornaments were worn.

The bride's gifts to her attendants were well chosen; to her sisters were given a coral necklace and a string of gold beads, and to the maid of honor, Vera Hamilton, a brooch of coral and pearls. Miss Hamilton is the daughter of Mrs. Hamlin of Pittsburgh, who was formerly Mrs. Wren.

Miss Hamilton has been spending some weeks here at the Laymance home.

Among the young girls at the wedding, all of whom were attractively gowned, were Miss Ruth Hall, Miss Florence Rice, Miss Hoffmann of Sacramento, Miss Etta Schrock, Miss Lillian Breiling, Miss Alice Dalben, Miss Florence Pardee, Miss Earl, Miss Dorothy Grayson, Miss Lou Gravson, Miss Emma Gerber, Miss Nina Adams, Miss Chamberlain, Miss Leinert, Miss Laura Breiling.

Very few people have the distinction of being as popular as Mr. and Mrs. John A. Britton. They lived over here so many years that they have many dear friends on our side of the bay, who always give them the most cordial of welcomes when fate brings them over here. Indeed they hold a reception quite on their own account.

Mrs. Britton looked exceptionally well in a gown of heavy white silk, the corsage trimmed with point lace, and the costume set off with lovely ornaments in pearls.

A wedding supper so often lacks jollity that one is sometimes very sorry for the poor bride and groom, who have to listen to the average rambling wedding speech. And it is really a work of literary art to make a good speech at a wedding. It must have the ring of good feeling; it ought to come from the heart, and one always wants the touch of wit and humor to rouse the ready smile, and make the speech a happy one.

The bride and groom were very fortunate in having such exceptionally able speakers at their wedding. Mr. John Britton, especially, being considered one of the most brilliant after-dinner speakers on the coast. He was toastmaster, and his bright introductions were especially well done.

All the speeches were full of humor, for the toasts were responded to by Hon. George C. Pardee, Walter Scott, that she has many friends. She has a receiving party, and she was a very Rev. E. E. Baker and Percy Walker, all of whom have known the bride since her early school days.

The bright little bride has been very fortunate in her wedding gifts, and in the many preparations for this most elaborate home wedding. Much of her beautiful trousseau was sent from Paris, which is the center for thin wonderful French handmade work.

When Mr. and Mrs. Rice return from their wedding trip they are to reside temporarily with the E. J. Laymances at their East Oakland home, but they are planning to build in the near future a home in bungalow style in the Piedmont district. And for this home many very beautiful and costly gifts were received.

Prominent among the wedding guests was Mrs. Rice, the mother of the bride, who was one of the most beautiful gowns at the wedding, of black crepe, elaborately trimmed in Irish lace. Her gift to her son and his bride was a handsome chest of silver for their new home.

Mr. E. J. Laymance gave them a Steinway grand piano, and Mr. William Laymance's gift was a most elaborate set of dishes in white and gold.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hall Dodge, formerly Adt Laymance, have given for the new home a complete set of dining-room furniture, so the new home bids fair to be perfectly equipped, and one of the happiest of the new homes of the year.

And one might readily bestow a word in passing on the new hats of the year, for one sees them as they are at a time. No matter how many hats a woman may have, she usually wears the very best of them all, the one dearest to her heart, at a tea. And they simply fill in a drawing-room until sometimes you cannot see anything but hats, and sometimes a little group of people become so inexplicably mixed up that it requires some one of real genius to untangle the feathers.

But the hats are big and picturesquely, and becoming to many people, so they bid fair to remain as they are for some months to come.

Mrs. Percy and her two daughters made a picture interesting and attractive, as they welcomed to their home their many guests.

Mrs. Percy wore a gown of black lace, made in a most becoming way, and diamond ornaments added to the costume.

Miss Isabelle Percy wore a gown of white lace, with a pearl necklace and pearls were in her hair.

Miss Carmen Percy was gowned in white liberty satin, and she carried an armful of white chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Prentiss Selby is always a popular and distinguished member of any beautiful gown of white lace which she brought from abroad.

One of the most artistic towns at the reception was that won by Mrs. P. E. Bebbes. It was of pale blue liberty satin, in directoire effect, and beautifully trimmed in lace.

Many honors of the afternoon were carried off by bright and attractive Mrs. Frank C. Havens, who won one of the most gorgous and really stunning costumes seen over here this winter. Her gown was an exceedingly fine study in blue embroidery, set off with very beautiful frills and lace.

Mrs. Charles Butters was also beautifully gowned, and she had with her very attractive young wife.

Among the guests were the Misses

Mabel and Hazel Pierce of Francisco. They lived over here so long that they had many friends to make their afternoon a pleasant one.

Mrs. Percy and her daughters received their friends in the large drawing-room, which carried a wealth of superb chrysanthemums. It has come to be our wonderful November flower and affords a wealth of color to our social entertainments. The large hall and the drawing-room were superb pictures in yellow and white chrysanthemums, making an admirable background against which was outlined many beautiful guests in the costumes which are so very picturesquely and attractively this year.

TRAVELERS ARE RETURNING HOME.

Sam Bell McKee, Mrs. Orestes Pierce and Mrs. George McNear are on their homeward way, after a delightful visit in New York.

Mr. McKee and Mrs. Pierce met their sister, Mrs. Etienne Lanell (Amy McKee) on her return from Europe, and while in New York they were the guests of Consul-General and Mrs. Lanell. Mrs. McNear has placed her young daughter, Ernestine, at school in Farmington, and is leaving her there very well and happy.

Many of the New York girls go to Farmington, and it is one of the best known of the New England schools.

CARDS OUT FOR OAKLAND ASSEMBLIES.

Cards were sent out early last week for the "Oakland Assemblies," which are sure to prove such important social dates this winter. One is glad that the name has been changed, for there was much confusion last year between the Friday Night Club and the Friday Night Assembly.

Our dances could not have been better arranged, and there is a fine field for all of them, for we now have the Junior Assembly, the Friday Night Club and the Oakland Assemblies.

The Junior Assembly, with its early hours, includes the young people who are still in school, and its dates are quite properly set for Friday nights, since no insistent lessons will call upon their young energies next day.

The Friday Night Club includes many young girls each season, who are just out of school, and many college men, and some of the older girls, those who came out early, for young girls have a way sometimes of making their debut early.

The assemblies include the young married people, and some of the girls who have been out a winter or two, and the list represents very many of the prominent families of our city.

There will be two assemblies, the dances to be given at Maple Hall on Wednesday evening, December 9, and on Wednesday evening, January 27.

S. J. Taylor, Mrs. Allen-Babcock, Miss

OLD CLIFT HOME HAS BEEN CLOSED.

Mrs. William Clift has closed the old family home on San Pablo avenue in which the Clifts have lived so long. Mrs. Clift, with her daughter, Miss Jean Clift, is established at the Key Route Inn, and they are planning to spend the winter there.

MARRIAGE CARDS FROM NEW YORK.

There are many more teas this winter than we have had in some seasons past, for which people who do not play bridge are profoundly grateful. There are so many bridge clubs now that the game is beginning to be confined to them. For many people now play a most scientific game of bridge, and it is a positive misery for them to be obliged to play with beginners. And in the first place the beginner never does know how very badly she plays, or she wouldn't handle her cards with such assurance.

TEAS POPULAR THIS WINTER.

From New York came interesting cards which read:

"Mrs. Mary Luttermann announces the marriage of her daughter, May Annette, to Paymaster Rishworth Nicholson, U. S. Navy, on Thursday, the fifth of November, at 1221 Linden street, Oakland, California."

Paymaster and Mrs. Nicholson are making a tour of Southern California, and are now at the Hotel Coronado.

SENATOR'S DAUGHTER SOON TO WED.

Next Wednesday has been set for the date of the wedding of Cleveland Baker and Miss Pansy Perkins, and the bride-elect has decided that the wedding is to be quietly celebrated at her home, Palm Knoll, on Vernon heights. Only members of the Baker and Perkins families are to be among the wedding guests.

The good players play their very best game at the club meetings, or among themselves, and they are coming more and more to prefer a tea for the more general reunions.

Mrs. Frederick Dieckmann is among the young hostesses who will entertain at a tea, having sent out cards for the 19th. The guest of honor will be Mrs. Marion Walsh, one of the much-loved brides-elect of the year.

Mrs. Dieckmann will entertain at her attractive home at Linda Vista, and her guests will include many of the well known young girls and younger matrons of our city. They comprise such an exceedingly bright set of young people that the tea is sure to be one of the most delightful of the many November dates.

Goes to Visit in Philippines.

Among the passengers on the Manchuria which recently sailed for the Orient was Mrs. C. P. Downing, who goes to the Philippines to visit her daughter, Mrs. Benjamin Edgar.

Captain Edgar has been assigned to duty in the Philippines, and will be stationed there for some months, and Mrs. Edgar, who was Edith Downing, accompanied him to his post of duty.

DEEP INTEREST IN "TAG DAY."

Of course, the interest of most of the prominent families of this side of the bay centers around "tag day," the big Oakland day of the near future, and already the enthusiasm bids fair to equal that aroused by the now famous tag day of San Francisco annuals.

For the people of San Francisco are never going to forget "tag day," the great holiday, which called out so much spontaneous effort, so much enthusiastic work, and which met with such magnificent results.

"Let us play tag for the poor little children who can not play tag for themselves!" That is what they said across the bay, and they played tag so well that $27,000 are today to the credit of the dear little children who "cannot play tag for themselves."

Nothing could be more infinitely pathetic than those sick children—noting more truly beautiful than San Francisco's magnificent response to their appeal. There was hardly a society girl across the bay who was missing from the ranks of workers; they were all workers in a common cause, the women of the smart set swelled the ranks and led the way, and worked with a vim and spirit and right good will that rolled up the dollars as the hours sped on.

Such a good time as every one had—it was a great general holiday, and the girls who went to the streets and worked and trusted to the generosity and chivalry of the men of San Francisco were not deceived in their faith.

A universal helpful courtesy was shown their share, and not one word of complaint could be found in the great army of women who earned $27,000 for the little ones who couldn't play for themselves.

But San Francisco has not all the sick children and all the poor people—we have our own share, all the more since the fire, when the refugees drifted over here and never went back. We are to have our own "tag day," and it is quite up to each one of us to see that it is our own big holiday, and well worth all our effort.

It is useless to say that "charity affairs" are not society affairs, for they usually are. It is the women of the smart set who have the time for the philanthropies, with the innumerable details which must always be considered.

Cleveland Baker came from Nevada a few days ago, and the young people are planning to make their future home in Tonopah, where Mr. Baker has already established a footing in his chosen profession—that of the law.

DEEP INTEREST

IN "TAG DAY."

And the three charities interested in "tag day" include in their list of officers the most prominent women on our side of the bay.

It is simply big and splendid and brave of Emma Mahoney to be the general, and to take all the worry and responsibility of so tremendous an undertaking.

Of course "the greatness was thrust upon her"; she would much rather have helped some one else, but she could not refuse, and went bravely to work, and now enthusiasm is simply at the boiling point all over the city.

The "tag day" has appealed to everybody, and if nobody wishes to give you a tag, you may make up your mind that you are really nobody, and do not count for much in a social way.

Every family of prominence, all the schools, all the associations, all the theaters are banded together in one universal effort to make a great, splendid success of "tag day."

They are all working under the slogan of "Help Oakland Now!" for it is a test of what we can do.

If we are a big city then we can afford to take care of our dependent people.

On the traction system, in the big Orpheum, in the many theaters, everywhere you will see the posters, "Help Oakland Now," and that means you must get ready with your little mite for the tag which means you have established your right to stay here, for you have civic pride.

The three charities appeal to us all the more strongly with the coming of the winter days. The Providence Hospital Auxiliary is working hard to establish its own sick ward.

It wants to care for the sick children in the poorer homes—to take care of little crippled children and to see what can be done for them, in this age when surgery does such wonderful things.

It is so very hard to be sick, to fall out of the race of life, but to be poor and to be sick is to know sorrow in one of its deepest forms.

It must be said of the Sisters of Providence Hospital that the work they take oblige them to care for the sick poor, and they do what they can in charity lines, but there is great need of the wider helpfulness of the women beginners, and if some of the pathetic stories could be painted, there would be more than one "tag day" in a year.

So quietly all these years has the work of the Ladies' Aid Association gone on, that few realize the greatness of its scope.

Our old ladies, our little children without any fathers and mothers, without any homes, without any people of their very own, to love them with all their virtues, to love them best of all, with all their faults! Little children without any ties of blood—just left all alone and helpless in a great, cold world.

They make a pathetic picture; they tug at our heart strings, these peaceful old ladies, looking calmly out of life's west windows; and these dear little babies, these little children, facing the future that we may help to make for them. And it is not a cold world after all. San Francisco rose in its might, at the call from the children, and we, too, will take care of this home near the foothills. These are our old ladies, our children, and we will make them comfortable for the winter. They are going to have a glorious Thanksgiving, and Santa Claus is coming down their chimney—for the whole town is going to play tag for them, for our dear ones who "cannot play tag for themselves."

They are all working under the slogan of "Help Oakland Now!" for it is a test of what we can do.

Our old ladies, our little children without any fathers and mothers, hard at work, are some of the most prominent women of the city.

Among those who for many years have been interested in the Red Cross work are Mrs. Albert Miller, Mrs. Roberta Harrison Clay, Mrs. Sam Prather, Miss Miner, Mrs. Harry East Miller, the De Premerys, Mrs. Treadwells, Mrs. R. G. Brown, Mrs. Florine Brown, Mrs. Everts.

Mrs. Warren S. Palmer is at the head of affairs in Alamedia and Mrs. Henry Martinez, one of the leaders of the smart set in Berkeley, is planning very able assistance in the college town.

Among the many prominent women who have already begun active work are Mrs. John T. Wright, Mrs. Thomas Phelan, Miss Mollie Conine, Mrs. A. D. Thompson, Mrs. E. B. Beck, Mrs. E. M. Welsh, Mrs. E. B. Beck, Mrs. B. F. Weston, Mrs. R. A. May, Mrs. Charles Butters, Mrs. W. P. Velich, Mrs. Richard Balbie, Miss Louise Mahony, Mrs. Ernest Folger, Mrs. Harry East Miller, Mrs. Albert A. Long, Mrs. Charles Parcells, Mrs. Alexander Marx, Mrs. McClure Gregory, Mrs. Montell Taylor, Mrs. William Clift, Mrs. Le Cole Burnham, Mrs. Thomas Hogan, Mrs. E. B. Sanborn, Mrs. Edgar Stone, Mrs. Warren May, Mrs. J. C. Hampton, Mrs. H. C. Capwell, Mrs. Harry Park, Mrs. Herbert Brown, Mrs. W. E. Dougherty, Mrs. E. C. Phenham, Mrs. W. G. Velich, Mrs. Florence Beaudry, Mrs. Sam Pfeiffer, Miss Genevieve Chambers, Mrs. Matilda Brown, Mrs. John Francis, Mrs. Mrs. Kyle and the Misses Clark, Mrs. Louise Castle, Anita Thompson, Mrs. May Coogan, Seville Hayden, Charlotte Hall, Ruth Hall, Jean Clark, Evelyn Hussey, Marion Walsh, Laetitia Meuvais and Laura Sanborn.

This is but the beginning of a roll of names which bids fair to extend indefinitely as the days go by, each name a center of influence which makes for the general success of one of the most important charity days Oakland has known. "Help Oakland Now!"

The latter have struggled with the burden for years, never wearying in the well-being, and the greatness of their work will never be known. For they take the children when Hitler more than babies, and give them the right environment, the right start in life. Every kindergarten in Oakland is interested in "tag day," and may every one of them have reason to rejoice and be glad because of "tag day."

In two days, over three hundred prominent women have begun work, and they include the society women and girls of Oakland, and that means only the beginning of the work, but already the splendid enthusiasm of the women beginners, and the generous helpfulness of the men mean that "tag day" is to roll up a record that will make it historical in the history of our city.

Rehearsals are going busily on now at the Key Route Inn for the vaudeville show which is to be given at the Macdonough Theater the second week in December. Willard Burton Jr. is the head of affairs, and is planning even more unique and original evenings than that of last year, when the Liberty Playhouse was crowded to the doors.

Mrs. Wilson, in a handsome gown of white and silver tissue, and the hand-made debutante, Miss Maud Wilson stood at the entrance to the drawing-room. Miss Wilson wore a director's gown of white lace, with a transparent guimpe, and her flowers were orchids and lilies of the valley. She is a handsome blonde with beautiful light wavy hair. Most of the debutantes who have preceded her in the FUTURE DAYS FULL OF INTEREST.

The coming days promise to be very full of interest, for in them are planned many dates worth while. On Saturday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Bowles are to be at home to their many friends at the large reception which they are to give at their home on Boulevard Terrace, and which promises to be one of the largest social events of the winter. They know so many prominent people on both sides of the bay that the assemblage promises to be a very brilliant one, where one will meet many people very definitely worth while.

Saturday is also the date of the big intercollegiate football game, which takes place this year at Berkeley. Among Miss Blair's guests were Mrs. Walter Martin, Mrs. Lawrence Scott, Mrs. Lathan McMullin, Mrs. Gus Taylor, Mrs. Will Taylor, Mrs. Frederick McNear and Miss Maud O'Connor. After the game a number of additional guests were asked in to tea.

Miss Blair will give a series of bridge parties this winter.

MRS. COLEMAN'S DINNER DANCE.

Mrs. James V. Coleman (Miss Minnie Hennessy) gave a dinner dance at the St. Francis on Friday evening in honor of Miss de Young and Miss Constance de Young. The affair was a very charming one.

Mrs. Coleman has begun to entertain this winter for the first time since her marriage, having given a number of small and attractive dinners, usually followed by bridge.

MRS. ARNOLD'S BRIDGE.

On Friday evening also Dr. and Mrs. Dennis Arnold gave an evening bridge at their attractive apartments in California street. A number of army people were among the guests.

BRIDGE PARTIES OF THE WEEK.

Cards are out for a number of attractive bridge parties next week. Mrs. W. Mayo Newhall will have the largest one on November 18, at her handsome home at Green and Scott streets.

On the 19th Mrs. Grayson Dutton will entertain at bridge in honor of Mrs. Frank Dutton, a recent bride, formerly Miss West of Stockton.

TO MOVE TO TOWN.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sears Bates (Gladys Merrill) have moved to town after spending the summer, as usual, at Rutherford, and have purchased a new home in Washington street. It is the house formerly occupied by the University of California club, and is being entirely renovated before the Bates take possession. Mr. and Mrs. Bates have two attractive little boys

CHILD'S BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Mrs. Wallace Irving Terry gave a birthday party on Monday in honor of her youthful son, and to it most of the juveniles of appropriate age in San Francisco were invited. All the favors partook of the holiday season.

GUESTS FROM OUT OF TOWN.

Mrs. Chansellor has been entertaining her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Kimball and their little daughter, who came up from their ranch in Kern county for a brief visit. The Chancellors are now in the south. They have taken Mrs. Sallie Stetson Winslow's beautiful brick colonial house in Pacific avenue for the winter. It is a much larger and handsomer residence than the one they occupied last year.

HAVE TAKEN APARTMENTS FOR THE WINTER.

Mr. and Mrs. James Follett have returned from San Rafael, where they spent the summer, and have taken an apartment in Pacific avenue for the winter.

Miss Maud Howard will spend the winter at the Hotel Granada.

Mrs. Davenport and Miss Eleanor Davenport have returned to town and have reopened their attractive Pacific avenue home.

TO BE ABSENT UNTIL AFTER CHRISTMAS.

Mrs. William H. Thomas, who went East in October to meet her youngest daughter, Helen, who had just returned from a trip abroad, will not return to San Francisco until after Christmas. Mr. Thomas will join his wife in Boston before Christmas and they will spend Christmas in Massachusetts, to return to San Francisco in January. The remainder of the winter will be spent at the St. Francis, the Thomases having sold their Pacific avenue home to Dr. Buckley some time ago.

RESIGNATION NOT GREAT SURPRISE

METCALF RETIRES
TO RESTORE HEALTH

President Roosevelt Thanks
Secretary for His Faithful Service, and Accepts His Letter With Reluctance.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—The resignation of Victor H. Metcalf, secretary of the Navy, tendered to the President yesterday, came as no great surprise to his friends, who have well known that he has for more than a year been affected with ill health.

Formerly of vigorous health, his friends expected that he would be able to regain his strength, but constantly recurring illness has convinced him that the only course open to him is to resign from his position with all active work. Metcalf has suffered from a nervous breakdown that has rendered it impossible for him to remain at his desk for any length of time, and the chronic nature of his trouble has caused him to abandon hope of recovering his health with the care of officers. On April 15 last he left California to review the Atlantic battle fleet. He took a long vacation, hoping to be permanently benefited thereby, returning here September 1. Upon his resumption of official duty, his illness promptly recurred, and he frankly told the President that he could not remain in the cabinet.

Newberry to Fill Place

Newberry has never filled any important public office prior to his appointment as assistant secretary of the navy November 1, 1905. Before that time he was in business in Detroit.

The following correspondence was given out from the White House tonight:

Nov. 13, 1908.
Sir: I hereby tender my resignation as secretary of the navy, to take effect on the 1st proximo. Very respectfully,

V. H. METCALF,
Secretary of the Navy.

The president, White House, Washington, D. C.

The White House, Nov. 13, 1908.

My dear Metcalf: I accept your resignation with regret, but you must do so, because you tell me that it is imperative that you must go on account of the state of your health. I had early in the summer of 1905 engaged you to continue with me throughout my term. I thank you warmly for your faithful and efficient service in both of the departments, and particularly for your services as undersecretary. But, my dear Metcalf, you have always been more than the head of the department; you have been a cabinet member, whose advice and advice and above all upon whose staunch and steadfast loyalty, I could rely upon any and all occasions.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT,
President.

The retirement of the only Pacific Coast member of the Cabinet has revived speculation as to the makeup of the Taft cabinet as affecting the coast. Taft is disposed to make a place for a Pacific Coast man in the Cabinet, but no thinking man can give as yet the precise place that should be filled.

Among those mentioned for Cabinet places are William E. Whitney, secretary of commerce, and labor, who would probably become head of that department if Secretary Strauss should be shifted to another portfolio; George A. Knight and Francis J. Heney, West mentioned as an available attorney general.

With regret, therefore, I accept your resignation, it takes effect upon the date you desire. With all good wishes, faithfully yours,

THEODORE ROOSEVELT,
President.

The retirement of the only Pacific Coast member of the Cabinet has revived speculation as to the makeup of the Taft cabinet as affecting the coast.

Taft is disposed to make a place for a Pacific Coast man in the Cabinet, but no thinking man can give as yet the precise place that should be filled.

If Metcalf had been in good health, it is probable he would have been asked to remain, as he and Taft are warm friends. Now that he has retired the field appears to be open to other Pacific Coast men. Among those mentioned for Cabinet places are William E. Whitney, secretary of commerce, and labor, who would probably become head of that department if Secretary Strauss should be shifted to another portfolio; George A. Knight and Francis J. Heney, West mentioned as an available attorney general.

Decided Suddenly

While the secretary has several times announced his intention of resigning at the expiration of President Roosevelt's term, it was not known here that he contemplated retiring to private life at an early date. Yesterday, however, his son-in-law, Miss Viola Nicholson, received a letter from the secretary, but he made no reference to a change in his plans, and Miss Nicholson is confident that he had not decided to retire when the letter was written.

The announcement of Secretary Metcalf's retirement in the papers today was the first news we had received of his approaching "retirement," said Miss Nicholson today. "We know absolutely nothing of his plans for the future. In a letter that I received from him only six days ago he said nothing about his intention to retire, but when we all knew that he intended to retire next March, but the news of his resignation today came as a complete surprise."

George D. Metcalf, law partner of Secretary Metcalf in the firm of Metcalf & Metcalf, also expressed surprise at the news of his partner's resignation from the portfolio of the navy.

"I had no intimation that the secretary intended to retire at this time," he said in his office in the First National Bank this afternoon. "My first information of his resignation was received from the papers. I know nothing at all about his plans for the future."

BALK AT ALIMONY FIND JAIL

One of Three Obstinate Husbands Preferred to Hang.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—It was an unlucky day for husbands. Certain wives who had been awarded alimony failed to get it and forthwith appealed to Judge Lockwood Honore. The result was that three obstinate opponents of the alimony system were committed to jail yesterday. One was so obtuse he declared he would not pay if his "neck stretched for it."

Another of the three offered to give money and his watch to escape imprisonment, but he was committed for his open defiance of the court before any order against him had been entered.

The three were: Adolph Schaar, failed to pay alimony of $12 and solicitor's fees of $20; Mandel Singer, failed to pay alimony and solicitor's fees of $20; Otto Jacobitz, the one who said he would rather hang than pay.

Overrules His Own Attorney

When Jacobitz was called to the bar he was asked by counsel representing his wife, Martha Jacobitz, whether he had declared that he would not abide by the court's order. " Didn't you say while out in the hall a few minutes ago that you would not pay alimony and solicitor's fees if you were hanged for it?" he was asked.

" Yes, I did," Jacobitz answered. At this point Attorney Emery S. Walker, representing Jacobitz, intervened to save him.

" You honor," Mr. Walker said, " he admits saying this, but he does not say that he will not abide by the court's order."

" I won't pay alimony or attorney's fees if my neck stretched for it," Jacobitz interrupted.

Attorney Walker then explained to the court he had appeared as counsel for Jacobitz without fee and simply to help an old client.

" I do not approve of his defiance of the court," he said.

Judge Honore then directed that the defendant pay $15 alimony and $25 solicitor's fees, and directed that Jacobitz be committed to the remarks he made while on the stand.

The other two had failed to comply with previous orders for alimony and solicitor's fees.

PINING FOR OLD HOME WOMAN IS A SUICIDE

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 14.—Months of suffering from a nervous trouble, which resulted in an acute melancholia, were ended for Miss Agnes Eckert, a teacher in the Rutledge school, at Franklin and Morris streets, when she was found dead in her home, at 5105 Greene street, Germantown, with the gas turned on.

The sisters had lived for many years in the old home at 1329 North Seventh street, where their mother died about forty years ago, and they decided to leave it for a new home.

Miss Eckert attended to her duties as a teacher last Wednesday, but on Thursday she complained of a headache and remained at home. In the afternoon, while alone, she carefully closed her room and turned on the gas. When Elmira Eckert returned she found the body of her sister on the bed.

Princess Henry of Batterberg, who has written an interesting history of the Isle of Wight, of which she is governor, published her first book, a translation of a German fairy tale, for the benefit of her own children some years ago.

ALLEGED WHITE SLAVE DEALERS UNDER ARREST

MARGARET SHEPPARD.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Reinforced by information contained in a letter from a prominent New Yorker, Police Magistrate Crane believes that within a short time he will have under arrest an influential politician who has been protecting white slave traffic. This letter gives the man's name and his present whereabouts. It is expected that a warrant for his arrest will be issued today.

Identifies Women

Guided by Gerry Agent Pisarra, Frances Collins, fifteen years old, identified four women whom she accuses of being engaged in the nefarious enterprise of luring young girls from their homes. In the apartments of Julia Keenan, on West Sixty-ninth street, was found a book containing four hundred names of victims and housekeepers. There were also names of men of wealth who frequented these places, and the whole disclosure was so evil that Magistrate Crane pronounced it the most despicable case that had ever come before him.

"I think it is high time," he said, "that the mothers and fathers of New York awake to the enormity of this white slave traffic. One way to stop it is to make public the names of these influential persons who are identified with it. As soon as I am sure of the man I am now looking for I will disclose his name, no matter what his position in politics or society."

Woman Arrested

The arrest and imprisonment of Margaret Sheppard, who is now in the Tombs, unable to procure bail, has disclosed a novel method of luring young girls, according to the statement of the woman's counsel, James A. Howard. He says that his client is employed in a department store, and that for a long time she was visited at her counter by an old man, who finally persuaded her to go out with him for dinner. While she still held her position he introduced her to the Collins girl and said he was trying to get her a position. Mrs. Sheppard lived with her married sister, and at their apartment entertained the young girl. She claims any knowledge of the white slave traffic, and it is significant that while bail has been furnished for the other three accused women no one has come forward to help her.

Weds Minister Who Was Shot by Irate Husband

complaints of the wretched young girls whom they harbored in their rooms and "hired out" to rich old men. The police and Gerry agents are now searching for these men.

Magistrate Crane, who first heard these cases and the Gerry agents are in receipt of numerous complaints from mothers whose young daughters have been ruined by members of the clearing house gang. In their search for the "man higher up" in the white slave cases the Gerry agents have come across various reports, all of which lead to the door of a West Side politician. This man has been quite prominently before the people of late and it is said if sufficient evidence can be gathered an arrest will be made promptly.

Neither Magistrate Crane nor Agent Pisarra will give the name of this politician, but they say the case is being investigated, and if the evidence warrants his arrest that no amount of political influence will save him from being dealt with according to law.

Woman Sent to Cell

The Keenan woman was unable to furnish bail and was sent back to a cell in the West Side Court prison. Today she will be transferred to the Tombs to await the action of the Grand Jury, not only in her case, but in that of the four other notorious women whose arrests followed the trial of Mrs. Taylor's husband.

"This is an awful story these little girls tell," said Magistrate Crane, "and I don't see why I should act in another case than did Magistrate Moss, who in this case originally fixed bail in the sum of $2500."

Girl's Damaging Testimony

The first witness against Mrs. Keenan yesterday was 16-year-old Frances Collins. She told how she had been taken to the house of Mrs. Taylor in West Fifty-eighth street and by her sent with a note to Mrs. Keenan. She said that following Mrs. Taylor's in-

Woman Boasted of Gems TO MAN WHO ROBBED HER

NOW YORK, Nov. 14.—It was a woman's boastful remarks concerning the beauty and value of her jewelry that led to the assault and robbery of Mrs. Sarah A. Dedeckle, of No. 148 West Nineteenth street, on the night of October 29 according to Detectives Conroy, Hawkins and McIlhenny, of the Central office. They arrived here today from Rochester with the two men who were the principals in a cunningly planned and executed robbery.

The prisoners are Alfred Underhill, twenty-six years old, and a giant in height and bodily strength, and Stephen Murphy, twenty-five years old, a tiler. Both men lived at No. 73 East One Hundred and Thirtieth street and are single. John H. Underhill, forty-one years old, who was used as a tool by the other two was arrested on Sunday last at No. 12 East One Hundred and Thirty-third street, where he lived with his wife. Underhill was formerly a detective of the Delaware and Hudson.

Mrs. Dedeckle was robbed of $1000 worth of jewelry, all of which was recovered at the house in Rochester, where the two men were arrested. Several stockings and brooches were found pinned to the back of the men's shirts.

Aged Nurse Dies Of Broken Heart

NOW YORK, Nov. 14.—A broken heart over separation from the girl she had nursed from birth is believed to have caused the death of Mrs. Elizabeth At Williams, 69 years old, who for many years was employed in the home of John B. Simpson, president of the State Piano Company, at Bettendorf, N. Y. Simpson is at the Hotel St. Francis on his way to Philadelphia to attend the funeral.

Mrs. Helen Simpson entered Vassar College this fall. It was the first time in eighteen years he had been separated from his old nurse. The interlocutor begged to go with her and take care of her, but owing to the rules of the institution this was impossible. Mrs. Simpson allowed her a pension of $50 a month. She became quite infirm about the household and from a strong, healthy woman dwindled to mere shadow. A week ago he was sent to Philadelphia to visit her sister.

Simpson received word that she was dead from "heart disease." Her sister wrote that Mrs. McWilliams had brooked over not seeing her Helen until she no longer wanted to live.

Mrs. Colin Campbell, formerly Nandy Letter, has had her income reduced by Joe Letter's illness. Mrs. Campbell is still having terrible fortune.

Dickie at road, October 28, Inst. He escorted her home, and on the way praised her diamonds. The woman, much flattered, told him she had lost more at home like them.

The next day Murphy presented himself at Mrs. Dickie's with a note of introduction from Releker. Releker said Murphy was a railroad man and was looking for a room.

He was such a rough-looking customer, however, that Mrs. Dickie hesitated.

"Do you think you could afford the rent I ask for it?"

"I am a Burglar"

"Well, it's no use bluffing along any longer," said Murphy, as the words left her lips. "I'm no railroad man but a burglar."

He reached back to his hip pocket and pulled out a pistol.

"I want those jewels you told Underhill about," he demanded. "If I don't get 'em I'll kill you right in your tracks."

In order to take no chances, however, he dug the terrified woman to the bathroom and tied her hand and foot to the water pipes. Then he renounced the house and got away.

The first thing the detective learned when they took up the case was about the letter of introduction from Releker. They found him and he willingly gave Underhill's address, and volunteered to do all he could to help them. In searching Underhill's room they found the note that Mrs. Dickie had written in answer to the forged letter to Miss Shiple. From people in the house they learned that Underhill and Murphy had left the house together on the day of the robbery. They also found that Murphy had two sisters living in Rochester.

By means of an intercepted letter they got the Rochester address and two days ago they arrested Underhill and Murphy in their hiding place. Underhill, according to the police, has a long criminal record in all parts of the country for similar crimes to the robbery of Mrs. Dickie.

GIRL BELIEVER IN POLYGAMY DEPORTED

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 14—Delphine Dodswoorth, a little English girl, twenty-one years old, became a convert to Mormonism in England.

Under the law no believer in polygamy can enter the United States. News of her coming reached the ears of the immigration authorities, and she is on a train bound for Montreal in the custody of an immigration officer.

Want Poor Mothers To Keep Children

There is a movement on foot among the clubwomen in the West to adopt measures to prevent the separation of children from their mothers on account of poverty. The leaders in this movement point out that in Australia if a widow with a family of children is left destitute the state instead of taking them away from her and paying their board in an institution or in a strange family, boards them with the mother and so keeps the family together.

Queer Marriage United Aged Pair

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 14.—Mrs. Mary Liston, the wealthy woman who was admitted to the workhouse upon her confinement, refused to pay a fine imposed upon her in the police court for an infraction of a municipal regulation relating to the drainage of premises.

Martha Collins, who is not related to Liston, corroborated her in protest.

Agents Pisarra and Leggett have testimony of a damning character. It is expected that the City Court will take up the white slave cases before the end of the week.

A daughter of Mrs. Liston promised that the property would be put in a savings condition within seven days. The fine was withdrawn.

Drank as Others in Her "Set"

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 14.—Replying in a deposition to her husband's charge that she drank to excess, Mrs. Clara M. Burns, wife of George H. Burns, of 4390 Washington avenue, says:

"I was not a habitual drunkard. Like other society women I took something to drink when I went out in company with my husband."

In another part of her deposition, filed today, she said her husband often observed her habit of spending money for expensive rides. He testified that he once found a bottle of whisky in her purse. In regard to the expense rides, Mrs. Burns, in her deposition, admitted that she drove some six blocks with a Mr. Keyes and that she took a drive with one Walter McBride. She said she borrowed $10 from McBride because she needed car fare.

The couple were married in Detroit in 1907 and separated April 23, 1907.

Sayings of Mrs. Solomon

(Being the Confessions of the Seven Hundredth Wife.)

Translated by HELEN ROWLAND

She not deceived, my daughter, nor put thy trust in signs, neither judge a man by the size of his tip to the waiter.

And because a man wears a passionate vest and silk stockings, yet it need not follow that he wears his board bill regularly. For a twenty-dollar-a-week clerk, breathlessly trots with a blouse air, yet a trust magnificently girded them gently but firmly to a street car.

Verey, a man a girdeth them before his toils before marriage, but he lootheth upon the milliner's bills after marriage as GRACE. Yet, a sweetheart is an object of contention, but a wife is a subject of charity.

Neither judge a man's morals by the temperature button he wears, nor thou has searched his pockets to see whether there be not an ilk hiddeh thereon. And when thou usest that a man denketh me, and smoocheth not, and firtheth not, restrain thine admiration until thou hast found out what WORSE thing he doeth in place of these.

I charge thee, my daughter, tremble not when thou art introduced to a college professor, let me ask thee the square root of the hypothenuse, either will he ask thee to eat a photogenic meal, a football favorite, will quote thee verses from Keats, and a poet will bring of his muscle. For every man seeketh to appear that which he is not.

And he who remaneth up until midnight to talk to thee may not be willing to arise at 6 o'clock to work for thee.

which was taken from him by Swartz, who kicked back, but it was taken by the California team and kicked back into their territory. Butler then tried for a drop kick, but missed.

Toss ball was carried over the goal, but Stanford did on the ball and saved it. Miller kicked the ball back into California's territory, gaining forty-five yards. Cerf again kicked the ball to Stanford territory, and Miller kicked it to Butler, who fumbled and passed to Cerf, who kicked for a touch on the side lines.

The Stanford team have now worked the ball by clever passing and dribbling to within thirty-five yards of the California goal. Webster saved the ball by falling on it. Stanford then passed to the north side play and California is given a free kick. Butler kicked for California. The ball was received by Holman and kicked into touch, gaining thirty-five yards. After the throw-in, Cerf got the ball, passed it along with the California backs, and Dwiggins again kicked into touch, gaining twenty yards. Dwiggins again kicked, gaining twenty yards, and it was caught by Faulkner and it was kicked back, California, not gaining anything by the kick. In a wild scramble for the ball, Harris kicked for California. The ball was caught by Faulkner and kicked back into the California territory.

Watts and Harris for California carry the ball across the field, but only gained about five yards.

Stanford Leads.

In a scrum in the middle of the field Stanford had the ball, and to Mitchell, who kicked it to the side line for touch, gaining fifteen yards. Stanford is going along the line, gaining five and ten yards on each throw-in. The California roosters are calling to their football squad to fight. After a scrum in which the ball was kicked back by Stanford and passed to Mitchell, he made a dash for the end zone and scored a try. The score is now 3 to 0 in favor of Stanford. Crawford, in his attempt to kick a goal, missed by a few feet.

Tackled By Cerf.

Watts, getting the ball after Crawford's kick, kicked it back and gained forty-five yards. After a scrum in the center of the field the ball was passed back to Dwiggins, who again kicked, gaining twenty yards. Dwiggins kicked to the center of the field, Cadwalader got the ball and started to run with it. He was tackled by Cerf, who to the ball. He was tackled back, gaining ten yards.

After a scrum in the far side yard California line, California, with a clever dribbling rush, forced the ball fifty yards toward the Stanford goal.

Record Crowd.

Berkeley is this afternoon entertaining the largest crowd in its history. The attraction of the eighteenth annual football game between the University of California and Stanford Rugby teams will be played. The great battle will be the third time that the two teams will meet in the game of Rugby football, a sport which, though originally developed, is still a game as the regulation game.

Twenty-two confident athletes, representing Stanford's warriors for honor, arrived at the St. Francis Hotel last night. Every man is in perfect condition with the possible exception of Cadwalader. The team averages twelve pounds more than the California roosters, representing the most athletically developed specimens of athletic manhood that exhaustive training and conditioning produce. Their appearance gives every indication of speed and strength.

Nineteenth Contest.

Put once in twenty-four months is a game of sectional importance played on California field. Today, the nineteenth annual contest between the University of California and Stanford Rugby teams will be played. The great battle will be the third time that the two teams will meet in the game of Rugby football, a sport which, though originally developed, is still a game as the regulation game.

Players All Well.

Everything is quiet in the Blue and Gold quarters this morning. The final finishing words of advice and the smoothing of the plays was completed at eight o'clock yesterday. Not a man is sick or weak. The team averages twenty thousand strangers in and out of town before 6 o'clock. The traction company is running cars under the two-minute headway on College and Telegraph avenues and under five minutes on Shattuck avenue. There is a special schedule on Grove street.

20,000 Strangers.

The roads lead to the Harvard stadium to-day, where nearly 40,000 persons gathered yesterday. The main battle will be between Harvard and Dartmouth. The field within the massive walls of the stadium was dry today and the weather fulfilled good football requirements.

There was a wild clamor for standing room.

Snow fell, making the ball slippery.

Pacific have requisitioned all extra rolling stock for Berkeley service.

The crowds began to arrive about noon and each succeeding half hour increased the throngs. The odds are in favor of Stanford, 10 to 10 being the prevailing figures at which wagers are being made.

Seats for 16,000.

At California field seating accommodations for 16,000 people have been provided. The athletic managers of both the universities say that the demand for admissions will be much in excess of the capacity of the grounds. Every provision has been made to prevent confusion and crowding.

Alumni in Force.

A feature of the crowd is the presence of great numbers of alumni of both Stanford and Berkeley. Every fraternity house has been packed to the transom for the past 24 hours with out-of-town members, some of whom have come from as far north as Seattle to cheer their teams to victory. The display of color, and the perfect weather adds to the occasion and the game promises to be by far the most spectacular played on California field.

Berkeley Awake.

Berkeley was awake last night in earnest. The beacon fire flashed from the big "C" on the hill. It carried the message of hope to the local contingent and about the campus and the town the devotees of athletics and the boosters practiced and rehearsed their part of the day's program.

The team went to their work today full of vigor, trained to the minute and competent. Same is true of their rivals, the Cardinals. Society made a feature of the day, and while opinions were about equally divided from a cardinal standpoint, the loyalty to the teams was unquestioned.

Society En Masse.

Pretty gowns and pretty girls, college colors, whether becoming or unbecoming, were loyally draped so as to fit the wearer and carry hope to the teams they were used for. It was a gala day. Automobile parties, which are now rapidly taking the place of the trolleybuses, crowded the fields at an early hour. It was a cheering and happy audience. It was the greatest tribute ever paid by society to California football.

The University assumed an animated appearance. Alumni returning to visit again their Alma Mater crossed the campus along the familiar paths in gay groups, each imbued with the spirit of the impending conflict. The atmosphere is one of battle. The energy of defiance and the thrill of victory stimulates every follower of the Blue and Gold, while the confident supporters of the Cardinals are little less in evidence.

Big C Ablaze.

Infilled with the jubilant spirit that characterizes the day, the great golden C boldly lettered on Charter Hill flashed back the spirit of victory through the hours of the night and the myriad of spectators, which is to be expected. Surrounded by the dark, purple greenish gloaming emblem of California split around every vestile of school patriotism as it loomed golden and steady from the heights of victory. Confident and defiant in its steady glow of golden brilliancy, it reflected the most visible spirit that illuminates the rosters today.

Bleachers Decorated.

Clouds of pennants, the modest blue relieved by the more aggressive red, hang here a victorious mantle over the western bleachers where the California roosters will be seated. The agitated preparation of the morning hours has charged the air within the confines of the amphitheater, until the laborers on the field were inundated with the excitement.

Great Crowd Gathers.

Across the gridiron, facing the California delegation, is the cohort from Stanford, led by a huge Cardinal banner. Four thousand roosters sit there, gazing in their shrill voices of yell for their respective teams. The crowd will be one of the greatest in the history of inter-university spirit. Thousands began assembling at 1 o'clock, and three cars are crowded with roosters bound for the game. The Stanford delegation will number more than 25,000 men. Many seats have already been sold for the game. Many seats on the vast bleachers promises to be taxed, while standing room was selling this afternoon readily for $1.

Everything points to one of the greatest, most skillful contests in recent athletic history. The relation between the

GOSSIP FROM THE SAN FRANCISCO WEEKLIES

A DUEL AVERTED.

It was far from being a Sabbath stillness that brooded over the Bohemian Club last Sunday morning when Dr. Shields and MacKenzie Gordon came to a misunderstanding. As a matter of fact, the Sabbath had not been ushered in by the tolling of church bells, but it was long past Saturday night; somewhere in the neighborhood of the witching hour when churchyards yawn. Dr. Shields and Mr. Gordon had contributed to the gayety of a dinner in honor of that perennial motif of festive gatherings, the Hon. Joe Redding, famous as the most versatile of genuses. Now it is almost proverbial that a Redding dinner usually winds up at breakfast. Hence it was not unseemly that Mr. Gordon and Dr. Shields, who were among the star performers at the dinner, should be in their tuxedos at the club on Sunday morning. But let us hasten to the meat of the misunderstanding. It was all on account of a dispute over the mimetic and artistic abilities of certain distinguished amateurs, and that sweet singer, Mr. Gordon affronted Dr. Shields by plunging into personalities with almost fatal indiscretion. There was at once talk of a duel. Indeed, there was a good deal of duel talk and there is no telling how the talk might have ended had not Dr. Jones butted in with some very harsh suggestions. He called attention to the fact that the morning papers would soon be going to press, and that there would be no time for them to get pictures if immediate action were not taken. This ended further discussion and all present resumed their merriment.—Town Talk.

MRS. POTTER PALMER'S EXPENSIVE DINNER.

Mme. Fremstad, who is considered to be the first of all the American "Salomes," declares that she will continue her propaganda for the notorious biblicist character. It is very strange that in a country like ours, where the ruling race is somewhat permeated by the old, stark, puritanical spirit, that Salome of all characters should be so much famed. The Bible contains few figures more infamous than the family of Herod, the uncle and stepfather of Salome, who demanded the head of John the Baptist as the reward for the dance she executed at the celebration of Herod's birthday. All the particulars of Herod's ill spent life and the misdeeds of his wife and daughter are set forth by the Hebrew historian, Josephus, who lived not many years after the death of John the Baptist. When Mme. Fremstad was singing "Salome" in Paris recently Mrs. Potter Palmer engaged her to go to London and sing at Mrs. Palmer's dinner to King Edward, who had expressed a wish to hear the American artiste. It costs those rich Americans abroad a good deal of money they draw from their native land to mingle with the nobility and royalty of Europe.—The Wasp.

THE AMERICAN MAUPASSANT.

A new comet has appeared in the literary heavens—or is it a fixed star? It is now only in the sense that it has become visible to the eye of the discerning critic, of the man who is recognized as an authority in literature. I refer to "O. Henry," the short story writer. To readers of fiction, the men and women who read and do not inwardly digest who they like a story do not know how the author compelled their attention and interest; and furthermore, do not care to these "O. Henry" has been a familiar name for many years. But only within the last few months have the wise guys of literature discovered that "O. Henry" is something more than a mere purveyor of fiction; that he is in reality an artist; of exceptional genius. Many of them were pioneered to this discovery by Rudyard Kipling and William Marion Reedy. Mr. Kipling regards "O. Henry" not only as a writer, but one of the greatest in all literature. This is pretty high praise from pretty high authority. "O. Henry," whose true name is Sidney Porter, has been doing for New York what Bret Harte did for California. He is depicting in vivid colors the life of the metropolis. But in his characterizations he has not dealt exclusively with city types. He is a man of varied experience, having been cowboy, sheep herder, merchant, miner, druggist and newspaper man; and from all the fields of activity in which he has labored he has drawn inspiration.—Town Talk.

AN ARISTOCRATIC DIVERSION.

Society girls have their fads. Some take out their periodic spasms in spurts of devotion to study; others give up their time to bridge, to embroidery, to taking long walks so as to keep within the limitations of fashion. Miss Edith von Schaeffer has discovered a decidedly novel method of exhausting her energy. She is still enjoying life at the splendid ranch owned by her titled father in San Luis Obispo, and it is a not infrequent thing to see this very attractive girl—always the pink of perfection in a drawing room or at a dance—enveloped from head to foot in an enormous apron, while she lightens the labors of various men about the place by milking the cows. Eight in an afternoon have been accomplished by this untiring young farmgirl, who declares that she does not expect to find anything quite so entertaining either in her social seasons here, nor when hobnobbing with the exclusives in San Rafael. This diversion of an aristocratic young Californian excels the pastime of Marie Antoinette and her bevy of beauties, who enlivened the court of Louis XVI at Versailles by dressing as milk maidens and carrying pails. Their masquerades stimulated the dressmaking industry much more than the dairy business.—The Wasp.

MORE OF THE OLD ATMOSPHERE.

Every little bit of the old distinctive atmosphere that comes back to San Francisco awakens a deep sentimental interest and is most gratifying to all that cherish recollections of the life that was extinguished. How quick the emotions are to respond to everything that brings back the sweet savor of things that were shown last week on the occasion of the opening of the new California market when thousands of people journeyed from all sections of the city to the spot that was once so pleasing to the senses. How glad they were to find the renaissance! So perfect has been the reproduction that it seems as though nothing had ever happened to the old market. The stalls are situated the same as before, and not an odor is missing save that which emanated from the dungeons beneath, where, occasionally, rat killing matches furnished entertainment for lovers of that cruel sport. Along with that odor has vanished, also, the Bunker who made Bunker's sausage as famous as Bunker Hill. Not long before the fire this distinguished artist in sausages was on the point of bringing suit against every butcher who had adopted his method. But now he is enjoying life on a farm and he has lost all interest in sausages. Appeals were made to him to return to the old stand, but in vain.—Town Talk.

TETRAZZINI'S CHANGED FORTUNES.

Mme. Tetrazzini has returned to America with seventeen trunks full of new clothes. Mme. Tetrazzini was asked about her experiences in hotel life and her mama for going to a novitiate every time. She said: "Oh, that's just a hobby of mine. We singers have our peculiarities like everybody else, and I suppose this one is mine. I go to a new hotel just for the change, that's all." Times have changed greatly with the talented Tetrazzini since the old days in San Francisco, when she was just making her reputation. Two trunks did very well then.—The Wasp.

MICHAELS SAVED THE DAY.

By Hercules, as Trimachio would say, that man Michaels is a shrewd toastmaster. Everybody knows that Frank Michaels is ponderous in every thing but wit, but everybody doesn't know what a wonderful tactician he is in an emergency. At a dinner given not long ago in honor of a distinguished visitor Frank Michaels officially acted as toastmaster, and with rare deftness he conducted the post-prandial flow of soul. In the most felicitous manner the several speakers were introduced, and some very brilliant things were said, but unfortunately a contretemps occurred. One of the speakers, a physician, rose to his feet bubbling over with sentiments that were far from grateful to the guest of honor. Then it was the tactfulness of the toastmaster was displayed. He tackled the job, I am told, with masterly ingenuity, and though he could not stem the flow of pungent sentiments he succeeded in smoothing out the wrinkles and abating the embarrassment of all concerned. It was a great triumph for Frank Michaels. As for the indiscreet doctor, I am told that he has been felicitating himself on having made the best speech of the evening.—Town Talk.

THE GOOD OLD FASHIONED WAY.

It is a relief that some of the debutantes are coming out at balls in the good old fashioned way, instead of at the tea, which has been so popular of late years. Besides those already mentioned, there will be two debutante balls, Mrs. John McMullin's for her granddaughter, Miss Anna

Weller and Miss Edith McMullin; and their daughter, Miss Florence. Miss Weller and Miss McMullin have already proved that they will be popular girls. They are great favorites with everybody, and will certainly do a lot of entertaining this winter. Mrs. McMullin's ball will be held at the Fairmont next Saturday night.

Miss Florence Hopkins, or Flossie, as her friends call her, is to have her coming out ball at the Fairmont also, on the 24th. She returned only a few weeks ago from an eastern trip with her father, and is enthusiastic over the fun that she expects this winter. Her sisters, Mrs. Gus Taylor, Mrs. Will Taylor and Mrs. Fred McNear, will undoubtedly do a great deal for her this year in the way of entertaining, as also will her cousin, Mrs. Eugene Murphy, who was Miss Frances Hopkins.—The Wasp.

STORIES ABOUT TAG DAY.

A great many amusing incidents of "tag day" that did not get into the press are going the rounds of the tea tables. The order was given that change should be made in every case, unless the "tagged" man refused the proffered money. But a great many of the girls, greedy for the cause, defied the ruling, and at every opportunity refused to give change. One debutante, whose engagement has been whispered, although the season is not yet out of its short skirts, is said to have lost her suitors as a result of her energy on tag day. She met his father coming out of the wholesale house over which he presided, and with her prettiest nod pinned a tag on his coat. The old gentleman had already been stripped of his small change, and handed her a shining twenty, with an expectant hand ready for change. But the girl, instead, flung him a silvery laugh and whisked down the street. The victim rushed back into his office, yanked his son off his stool and told him to follow the girl and get the change. So "sonny" breathlessly trudged after the debutante, and flung him the coin. "You shouldn't speak that way of my father," muttered the young man as he stalked off, the pain above his collar growing deeper as he caught the tail of their parting comments. At the skating club on Monday night it was noticed that the two young people, who were supposed to be engaged, conspicuously avoided each other. So Cupid evidently did not say "Last tag! You're it" on that memorable day.—News Letter.

THE DE SAGANS IN PARIS.

Prince and Princess de Sagan returned to Paris and opened the pink and white palace on Avenue Malakoff, in which Anna Gould lived when she was Countess de Castellane. The house remains exactly as it was, the princess is said to have remarked laconically to the maids' hotel. "Nothing is changed except my husband." The princess has changed her method of doing her hair. Now it lies in two flat bandeaux. The prince and princess have been spending the autumn in Toulouse. The two Castellane children were spending their vacation with their grandmother, and every day a rapid motor car brought them to a hotel in Tours to visit their mother.—The Wasp.

IT WAS BLUE MONDAY.

RELICS OF ANCIENT GIANTS.

The University of California attracted much attention among archaeologists when Professor Mortram discovered the remains of sabre tooth tigers and other rare prehistoric animals in the now famous asphalt sink that inspired Stanford agents have been actively scouting in that section of the state hoping to discover fossil remains of equal importance. Some two weeks ago they succeeded in locating a most desirable lot of fossils, but the original discoverer refused to sell them, notwithstanding the high price offered by the Stanford savants. This new find consists of elephant bones and the skulls of men who were between seven and eight feet tall. Carl Borg, the well known artist, uncovered the remains while sketching and exploring on San Nicolas Island, near Santa Barbara. Singularly enough San Nicolas was known among the early Spaniards as the "Isle of Skulls." Up to the time of Borg's important find antiquarians had recognized it as a place rich in historical relics, but no attempt was made to mine the strata. The elephant bones found by Borg are the first that have been located there. Now there is a rush of scientists to that locality and the ground is being systematically delved. Others are working the strip of land from Santa Barbara to the Mexican line, as signs have been found that it contains treasures in fossil remains.—Town Talk.

OSCAR SUTRO'S "THE POWER OF MONEY."

Rehearsals for Oscar Sutro's play, "The Price of Money," are engaging the alert attention of a number of members of the San Francisco Stage Society. The cast for this play is not exactly parallel, with that of "Treasure of the Wells," the last dramatic offering of the Stage Society. There is an understanding among the members that each and every one shall be given an opportunity to do his or her histrionic best, so the principals in last year's play did not expect to appear in this production. Mrs. Fred McNear, who played Rose, is not even in the cast, nor is Miss Constance Young. But the McDonald Spencers, who have both become seriously interested with theatricals, are to appear again. There are two parts in the "Price of Money" that simply screamed for their interpretation, and as no one version of the matter. From then I learn that it was not the posters that moved the choir of the disingenuous Jordan, but the satirical smash that was taken at the unloved Professor A. B. Clark in the "Plug Ugly" farce. One of the students appeared in the farce in a makeup that gave him a striking resemblance to the professor. The character was that of the faculty's official executioner. Every time he appeared on the stage a long hook would issue from the wings and he would drag off before he could utter a sound. This performance greatly offended the sensitive drawing teacher.—Town Talk.

THE POET AGNES TOBIN TALKED ABOUT.

Several months ago San Francisco was introduced to Agnes Tobin by Francis Thompson, the Catholic poet of genius. Miss Tobin did not present Francis Thompson to us, but in a very interesting lecture she told us of the man who suffered and starved in the streets of London and who died last January, and she told us of the rare beauty of his poetry which has often been compared to Shelley's. Thompson is now being discussed in the literary circles of London, and recently the Dublin Review leaped into a second edition with an essay on Shelley written by Thompson, a tribute from a poet which has been hailed as a masterpiece of English prose. Thompson wrote this essay twelve years ago and tried to get it printed. But the ill luck which dogged him all his life turned which into failure. The article was rejected even by the very magazine which has made a tremendous hit by its posthumous publication.—News Letter.

ALONE AT THE BALL.

In connection with after bath gossip of the Greenway birthday dance at the Fairmont one hears the lugubrious refrain—lamentable lack of men. And nothing makes Mr. Greenway so sad as the lack of men. He always affirms that he had all the men he wanted, however, that one of the most popular girls had to sit out two or three dances, a debutante or two or three seasons ago, alone, escorting alone when the procession to the supper started, when two men who knew her well enough to call her by her first name rushed over to her. "Sad," he said, "to be out four years." It was some embarrassing for a minute, but the girl managed to smile, and she was a very happy lime at the supper. She was the only girl who could boast more than one attendant.—Town Talk.

MISS AMWEG'S ENGAGEMENT.

Miss Ethel Amweg, daughter of Colonel F. G. Amweg, member of the governor's staff, and a distinguished consulting engineer of this city, is engaged to Mr. Walter L. Scott, manager for Baker & Hamilton, which was announced at an elaborate tea given at their house last Wednesday. The tea was given in honor of Miss Lyons, who was married to Mr. Alexander de Broutelle, brother-in-law of Adolph Spreckels, on Thursday.—News Letter.

ARCHBISHOP WILL MARRY THEM.

Society is looking forward to the biggest event of the coming week, the marriage on Wednesday of Miss Constance de Young and Joseph Oliver Tobin. It will be celebrated at high noon at the cathedral. The ceremony will be performed by the archbishop and will be followed by a solemn nuptial mass. The bride's gown is truly wonderful. It was purchased in Paris, as were also the dresses of the bridal party. Miss Helen de Young, in a gown of white satin, will be maid of honor, and the bridesmaids, Kathleen de Young, Frances Stewart, Constance Harvey and Rebecca Krutitschew, will be dressed alike in white satin, with bouquets the shade of American Beauty roses. The groomsmen will be Harry Simpkins, Edward Tobin, Charles de Young, Cyril Tobin, George Cameron and Baldwin Wood. Mr. and Mrs. Tobin will leave at once on a honeymoon trip, but will be back in time for Constance to be maid of honor at her sister's wedding. Helen de Young's marriage will be a home affair, George Cameron not being a Catholic. Both young couples will afterward settle in San Mateo. Joseph Tobin has already secured the Robbins house, and George Cameron has rented the Bonner cottage in El Cerrito Park. About four hundred have been invited to the church. The ceremony will be followed by a breakfast at the home of the bride, to which about one hundred and fifty have been invited. The bride has been the recipient of some beautiful wedding presents, among the most noticeable being a magnificent silver punch bowl and a tray and service of a very elaborate and wonderful design.—Town Talk.

THE SNUB COURTEOUS.

A little bit of repartee on the side enlightened a Burlingame tea last week. The victor was a young woman whose grandparents did not share in early California society, and the vanquished was a young chap whose family was in it in South Park days. The young chap is full of the pride and more than once he has witticed the young woman on the later arrival. Surveying her gown at the tea, he asked with a twinkle in his eye, "Is that your family clan plaid?"

"Family plaid!" she ejaculated, "why, the shanty Irish!"

He smiled and remarked that in his ancestry was considerable Scotch blood.

"Too bad," said the young woman, "that your family, like me, didn't prefer to share in the present generation."—Town Talk.

BERKELEY AND THE FRATS.

The Greek letter societies must go, is the edit passed out by the Berkeley Board of Education. At a recent meeting of the educational body the members of the high school fraternities were given until November 24 to resign. The penalty for the violation of this order will be a refusal to grant a commendation for entry to the University of California. District Attorney Donald, who has been consulted in the matter, says that the ruling is valid, and as a result there is consternation among the frat men. The sorority girls are also involved, and the student body has been thoroughly aroused. When the order was given out two years ago that any number of a fraternity was barred from athletics, the men openly bandied in their resignations to their societies. It has been discovered, however, that the resignations were not resignations in fact. The gray hair educators believe they have at last found a way to eradicate what they consider a great evil.—News Letter.

A LOVE CHASE.

The friends of two dignified bachelors representatives of the legal judiciary are wondering which judge is destined to be snared first by Dan Cupid. At the hotel where they live a good deal of merriment has been provoked by the love chase in which the judges figure as fugitives. They are the coziest pair of bachelors that ever were seen, but the pursuit is hot and apparently Cupid will not be denied. I am told that it has reached the stage at which messages are sent by telephone to the court and intercepted by the bailiff.—Town Talk.

JAPANESE AND THEIR LAUNDRIES.

On many bill boards all over town there have been posted lately a number of placards that inform the public to avoid all laundries not run by Caucasians. "Don't patronize Japanese laundries" is the way the signs read, and that is all there is to them.

No argument is advanced to support the statement, and no reason it attached to explain why the public should not give its soiled linen to whomsoever it chooses for cleaning purposes. On the face of it, it appears to be an anti-racial game, and the fair minded among the populace are at sea as to any other explanation. But the real reason the Japanese laundryman has excelled the rest of his white professional brother is merely because he conducts his business in a business-like manner; because he washes and irons and starches the clothes given to him quite as well as the white laundryman, and because he delivers orders promptly and at the time he has contracted for. There is no attempt on his part to lower prices, for the laundry rates of the Japanese are exactly the same as those charged by laundries run by whites, so there can be no objection to them advanced on that score. It all resolves itself into the fact that it is a case of jealousy pure and simple on the part of some one.—News Letter.

PREPARED FOR THANKSGIVING.

Unless all signs fail Del Monte will be the scene of many jolly parties over the Thanksgiving week-end holidays. Many gayeties are planned by San Francisco society folk who will go down either by motor or train. The golf course is in excellent condition and as usual will attract a number of prominent business men who never miss an opportunity for a few days' play on the famous course. The roads from this city to Del Monte are reported to be in good shape and should the favorable weather continue will tempt a large crowd of motorists. Besides the particularly elaborate Thanksgiving dinner which is always a feature of Del Monte Manager Warner is planning a number of other things which will add to the pleasure of his guests.—Town Talk.

CALIFORNIA CLUB LUNCHEON.

Mrs. J. B. Hume, who was the guest of honor at the elaborate luncheon given by the California Club on Tuesday, was thus complimented because she is president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs. She is one of the most active and enthusiastic clubwomen on the coast. The luncheon was served at round tables in the California Club's banquet hall. Mrs. E. L. Baldwin, president of California, occupied the head of the first table, with Mrs. Hume at her right. Others at the table were Mrs. Robert Potter Hill, Mrs. J. W. Orr, Mrs. Lovell White and Mrs. Aylett Cotton, all past presidents of the club.

Admirable addresses were made by Mrs. Baldwin, Mrs. Hume, Mrs. Hill, Mrs. Donnison, Mrs. Cornwall, Mrs. Wright and Madame Tojetti.—The Wasp.

SAD NEWS FOR A BRIDE.

Word has just reached me that a sad happening followed the rejoicings at a wedding upon the second marriage ceremony of Miss Kitty Perrin of Mill Valley and young Alec Beyfuss of the White Automobile Company, celebrated recently in Kansas City. The young couple had barely started off on their honeymoon trip to Texas when the bride received a wire conveying the sad news of her mother's sudden death. Mrs. Howard Perrin had been an invalid for some time, and her daughter had been her constant companion and devoted attendant. After Miss Perrin's marriage the mother made up her mind to spend the winter with relatives in New York, but the excitement attending the preparation for the long journey proved too much for her delicate health, and she succumbed to heart failure.—The Wasp.

Optical Probitry

In no business is the possession of this quality so essential as in this one, for a dishonest optician will ruin the eyes.

Much optical dishonesty is being practiced at the present time, and many injurious lenses are being sold, including some imitations of the Kryptok that we introduced over five years ago, and have steadily declared to be the best far-and-near glass the world ever saw.

Honest opticians are selling the genuine Kryptok and giving a written guarantee with them. Dishonest opticians are laying traps for the unwary by advertising Kryptoks and substituting an imitation when the customer comes for the glasses. Demand the written guarantee.

The RED CITY

A Great Historical Novel of Philadelphia in the Time of President Washington

The Successor to Dr. Mitchell's Famous Novel "Hugh Wynne"

HERE is a splendid story—a young Huguenot comes to Philadelphia in the year 1792, when Washington was President. He falls in love with a young Quakeress—he meets Jefferson, Hamilton, all the great men of the day, even Washington himself. The reader feels that he, too, knows them—and while the spell of the book lasts he lives in the stirring days that followed the birth of the Republic.

Philadelphia is the "Red City." Built of red brick, it was, in those days, the color of the Dutch city Amsterdam.

BUGGY HIT BY A CAR; WOMAN HURT

Mrs. Carl Tidwell Near Death as Result of Injuries Caused by Collision in Oakland.

FRUITVALE, Nov. 14.—A Telegraph avenue car, southbound, ran into a buggy containing Mr. and Mrs. Carl Tidwell of 1224 Bassett street, Fruitvale, Thursday night, hurling the woman, who was a passenger, into the ground and seriously injuring Mrs. Tidwell. Tidwell was badly bruised, but was not seriously injured.

The accident occurred at the corner of Thirty-first and Telegraph avenues about 6 o'clock. Tidwell, who was driving, attempted to turn from Telegraph avenue into Thirty-first street and was prevented from doing so by a large furniture wagon which blocked the street. He turned back onto the track and the car, which was going at a high rate of speed, it is said, caught the rig squarely on the front wheel.

The buggy, which belongs to M. C. Turner, manager of the Fruitvale Lumber company, from whom it had been borrowed, was completely demolished. Mrs. Tidwell was taken to the East Bay Santorium, which is near the scene of the accident, where, upon investigation, it was found that steam and smoke was the cause of the trouble. The engineer of the mill had left the fire in the furnace and the over-pressure steam escaped through the safety valve made. It was in clouds through every crevace and crevice of the building, looking very much like real smoke.

The valve was turned off and the firefighters returned to their homes, some of them however, stopping on the way to drown their wrath in some more "steam."

COUNCIL COMMITTEE ACCEPTS STREET WORK

ALAMEDA, Nov. 14.—The Council committee last night voted to accept Buena Vista avenue, recently improved by Hutchinson, to be a street. A number of property owners reported at the meeting that the street work had not been done satisfactorily. A representative of the city said that the improvements and other defects had not been remedied since the street was inspected. Last night Councilmen Nay, Fisher and Christopher, who were to inspect the street and considered it a splendid job. The acceptance of the street will end the argument the property owners were preparing to make against the street being accepted.

FALSE ALARM CALLS OUT FIRE DEPARTMENT

FRUITVALE, Nov. 14.—A fire alarm was turned in Thursday night by H. Rager, ex-fireman of the Fruitvale department, who discovered what he took to be smoke coming through the roof of the Europa Mill on Fourteenth Street and Wheeler avenue.

The fire department rushed to the scene of the "configuration," where, upon investigation, it was found that steam and smoke was the cause of the trouble.

The engineer of the mill had left the fire in the furnace and the over-pressure steam escaped through the safety valve made.

It was in clouds through every crevace and crevice of the building, looking very much like real smoke.

The valve was turned off and the firefighters returned to their homes, some of them however, stopping on the way to drown their wrath in some more "steam."

ALAMEDA, Nov. 14.—Isadore Durand, the hero of the recent Livermore fire, whose bravery and coolness undoubtedly saved the lives of the entire Burnell family, is to be the recipient of the golden dinner Livermore tonight. Durand is at his home, 2224 Lincoln avenue, this city, dangerously burned about the face and hands. Durand was running a moving picture show, with Burnell in what was known as the old brewers building. The building caught fire and Durand roused and carried to safety Burnell's three children, being severely burned while engaged in his life saving work.

ALAMEDA, Nov. 14.—Geo. W. Barnes, one of the most popular railroad employees of the Southern Pacific Company, died at his home in Alameda last night. He had been ill about a year with kidney trouble. His bereaved wife and two sons, who were working at the plant, remained at his side until his death.

FIRE THREATENS SAN LEANDRO INN

Hunters' Hostelry Narrowly Escapes Being Burned.

SAN LEANDRO, Nov. 14.—Hunters Inn was saved from destruction by the yesterday, by the prompt action of employees of the hostelry who quickly formed a bucket brigade and extinguished the flames before they had reached the eaves.

The fire was discovered by an employee of the hotel, who noticed smoke coming out from the flooring of the barrow on the second floor.

The doorway was torn up and parts of water was poured upon the flames which were making their way through the floor. A greater part of the flooring had to be torn up before the flames could be completely put out.

The fire originated beneath a fireplace, and it is thought was caused by a defective grate. The loss is entirely covered by insurance.
